HUGE BUILDING PROGRAM READY TO BE LAUNCHED

More Than $800,000,000 in Public and Semi-public Construction

TAKE CANVASS OF U. S. Try to Learn Condition of Project Amounting to Over 2 Billion

Washington — (AP) — Public and semi-public building projects aggregating more than $800,000,000 were reported today by President Hoover's emergency employment committee as ready to be undertaken within a few months.

A nationwide canvass was taken by Franklin I. Miller, head of the committee's public work section. Efforts were made, he said, in a statement, to ascertain the actual condition of specific projects amounting to more than $2,000,000,000.

"All of this work," he said, "has advanced beyond the stage of procuring funds, authorization or selection of sites, litigation and other preliminary steps which frequently delay public construction programs."

"Our estimate is based on personal letters and information on specific projects of a public and semi-public nature including state, municipal and county buildings, schools, and highways amounting to more than $2,000,000,000. It is based on a tabulation of actual jobs which have come before us one at a time during the last three or four weeks."

"It has been said that the total normal action construction in this country amounts to some $10,000,000,000. Of this 35 to 40 per cent is for public works and 5 per cent for federal work. Up to the first of this week we have received reports on $1,350,000,000 of public construction so our reports are coming in at the rate of approximately $50,000,000 a day. Hence we have a pretty accurate idea today of the status of more than 40 per cent of the public and semi-public construction for next year."

"This indicates that a very substantial amount of work which is not at all dependent upon commercial returns from rentals manufacturing and etc., will be under way shortly provided that plans can be completed and contracts let. We are hopeful that bills now before congress will expedite the work now being done in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury and permit speeding up of plans and specifications."

Sixteen projects were being delayed because of lack of appropriations, 39 by preparation of plans, 10 by awaiting bids, 7 selection of sites, 7 approval of plans, were held up by litigation and six for miscellaneous reasons.

BURMESE REBEL CHIEF RUMORED SHAN PRINCE

Rangoon, Burma. — (AP) — The dashing leader of the Burmese rebels in the Tharawaddy district is still a figure of mystery but one report current here now is that he is a Shan prince who was told by a fortune teller he would be king of Burma and who now is making a bold effort to achieve that object.

Government forces rushed to the region affected by his band's depredations, about 70 miles north of Rangoon, are reported to have him and his wild men hemmed in and it is understood the authorities have decided upon a campaign of starvation as the best means of dealing with the movement.

Marshal Joffre Losing Battle For Life

Oration To Police Puts Art In Jail

"The Great" Shires Held for Drunkenness, Carrying Hidden Weapons

Hollywood, Calif. — (AP) — Police said today Arthur "the great" Shires, former big league baseball player, boxer and orator of sorts, was lodged in the jail on charges of drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons.

The erstwhile major leaguer whose recent marriage in Los Angeles to Miss Elizabeth Greenbaum of Chicago, was accompanied by Shires' announcement he had succeeded to movie offers, virtually insisted on being arrested, police said.

Shires, police reports stated, after riding about Hollywood several hours, entered the police station early today and began a typical "whataman" monologue.

"His discourse on what the films had gained by his entrance to the motion picture field was interrupted by Desk Sergeant Towne's suggestion that Shires go home and sleep. 'Whataman,' the sergeant said, refused to leave his rostrum which was the sergeant's desk.

The sergeant did not try. A search was said to have revealed Shires possessed a pair of brass knuckles. A felony charge of carrying concealed weapons prevented the former Washington first baseman from being released on bail without a hearing before a magistrate.

The hearing was set for today with Shires' bride and friends pleading for his release.

DRUNKEN DRIVER PAYS $50 FINE

Arrest Chris Whitman After His Car Collides With Another Machine

Chris Whitman, route 5, Appleton, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving.

The judge also ordered that his driver's license be revoked for six months.

Whitman was arrested about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon after car he was driving collided with a machine driven by George Dietrick, route 1, Appleton. Whitman was driving east on Prospect-ave and Dietrick was driving north on Memorial-dr when the accident occurred. The front end of Whitman's machine and the rear end of Dietrick's machine was damaged.

Witnesses of the accident called police and Sergeant John Duval and Officer Albert Deligan arrested Whitman. He was held at the police station until this morning when he was taken to court.

6 SHOCHTIM OFFICERS PUT UNDER SUSPENSION

Chicago. — (AP) — Six officers of the Chicago Shochtim, the authorized organization for killing of Kosher fowl for orthodox Jews, were under suspension today.

The action was ordered by a mass meeting of the Union of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations as a step to combat alleged racketeering within the Shochtim. It followed an appeal by the Rabbinate for all parishioners to stop eating fowl until the purported racketeering had ceased.

Charges were made by the union and Rabbinate that some officers and members of the Shochtim have used coercive methods in dealing with markets.

HEAVY GALES DAMAGE LARGE BRITISH AREA

London. — (AP) — Heavy gales blew over the British Isles today, kicking up high seas along the coast and doing some damage inland. The wind reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour in places in Ireland and Scotland and attained an average speed of 55 miles an hour at Farnworth, Lancashire. In London 50 miles an hour was recorded.

All along the southern and western coasts shipping was tossed about in the high seas, the waves being particularly large about Land's End and the Isle of Wight. Shop signs and fences were hurled down in London.

DEATH NEAR AS HERO OF MARNE SINKS IN COMA

Doctors Hold Little Hope French Leader Will Live Through Day

Paris. — (AP) — Marshal Joffre, fighting a losing battle with death sank into a state of extreme weakness today and his physicians issued a bulletin at 3 o'clock describing his condition as most grave.

A few minutes before the bulletin was issued, General Isae, chief of staff under the marshal, visited his old leader and reported that the hero of the Marne was sinking slowly.

The five doctors who have been at the patient's side day and night since Saturday held out little hope that the marshal could live through the day.

"Marshal Joffre has reached a state of extreme weakness," the medical bulletin read. "His condition is most grave."

Half an hour later the marshal sank into a coma and it was feared that he would never regain consciousness.

The gloomy news spread quickly among the great crowd gathered about the hospital of St. Jean-de-Dieu and those people who love "Papa" Joffre spoke in hushed whispers of his agony.

As twilight fell the hospital was closed to the public and an extra police guard placed about the doors.

Andre Maginot, the former minister of war, and Paul Painleve, the present air minister, came out of the hospital together just after Marshal Joffre lost consciousness. Tears were streaming down Painleve's cheeks.

"I saw him," the minister said. "He looked as though he were in a deep sleep."

"It is the end," said Maginot.

Can't Speak To Friends

Since 3 o'clock p. m. Sunday the hero of the Marne has been sinking. Most of the time he has been in a coma, with slight intervals in which he seemed to recognize those about him but could not speak to them.

The following bulletin was signed by attending physicians at 7:30 this morning.

"The night was without incident. Patient feeble but preserving all his lucidity. Pulse 90. Temperature 37.5 (95.5 Fahrenheit)."

Dr. Fontaine, who remained with the marshal throughout last night, told newspapermen that the old soldier had "upset all prognostications and might continue in his present condition all day."

"The marshal is of course extremely weak and continues to sink," he said, "but very slowly. He had a relatively calm night and from time to time he started up but relapsed again into profound calm."

He has had his left leg amputated in treatment of severe arthritis.

Sensor Louis Barthou, minister of war, was the only person admitted to the dying man's presence last night, his visit being official in that he is head of the army and personal in that he is one of the closest of Marshal Joffre's friends. He found him in one of the flashes of consciousness and could perceive by the light in the old soldier's eyes that he was recognized. Joffre attempted to speak and M. Barthou leaned down and put his arms around the shrunken form but could not make out what it was the marshal wished to say.

General von Weydang and Alexander Millerand, former president of France, and Mme. Millerand were admitted to the bedside Sunday morning and said on leaving that Marshal Joffre had recognized them.

Among other morning callers who were not admitted were Mme. Poincare, who called in the name of her husband, also M. General Gouraud, and Deputy Maunat. Premier Theodore Steeg and former Queen Amelie of Portugal, also called.

Telegrams continued to come from all over the world, bringing the sympathy and condolences of governments and individuals who feel a debt of gratitude to the marshal for his handling of the French armies in the dark days of 1914, 1915 and 1918. The kings of Spain and Egypt have asked their diplomatic representatives to keep them advised constantly of his condition.

"Nothing to Say"

CYRUS S. EATON

New York. — (AP) — Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, refused to comment today when informed of the decision denying the proposed merger of Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube. Asked if he would make a statement, the financier who has led the fight against the merger, said "Nothing to say. Thank you very kindly."

2 Counties Hunt Group Of Burglars

Six Places Looted at Lomira — Gang Blamed For Other Burglaries

Lomira, Wis. — (AP) — Burglars entered six business places, cut open three safes with an acetylene torch, and escaped with cash, merchandise and checks totaling more than $1,000 early today. Authorities of two counties organized an extensive search for them.

Four men who were seen by John Wolf, a merchant, as they fled southward on Highway 41 early today were also believed responsible for a number of other recent burglaries in this vicinity.

The largest haul here was made at the Lomira Cooperative company where the burglars cut open the safe and obtained $30 in cash, checks totaling about $600, and a radio set valued at $35.

Losses at five other places were estimated as follows: The Lomira Elevator Co., $100 in cash and $150 in checks from the safe; the Alfred Klein Hardware Co., radio supplies valued at $120, a $70 washer, miscellaneous change and merchandise; the E. J. Stellmacher Lumber Co., $20 from a cash drawer and a ruined safe; the Soo Line depot, a small amount of change; the Lomira Oil Co., a burglarized safe with little of value stolen.

Sheriffs of Fond du Lac and Dodgecos were cooperating in the search for the robbers. They were called here early today by Constable Alfred Klein who was aroused by Wolf when the latter heard noises in Klein's hardware store.

Authorities were convinced that the robbers were members of a gang responsible for the $400 robbery of the Rio postoffice recently, the burglary of a number of stores at New Holstein Friday night, and a series of filling station robberies near here.

Reorganization Of Drys Is Demanded By Leader

Washington. — (AP) — Again from within dry ranks has come a call for reorganization of forces supporting prohibition, coupled with gloomy forecasts for the cause as the alternative.

Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, was the critic. He issued a statement yesterday asserting an authoritative canvass showed at least 40 members of the house who confessed themselves "prepared to desert" the drys at the first strategic opportunity.

This assertion came on top of rumors that trouble is ahead in the house for the $2,000,000 additional funds asked by the justice department for next year's prohibition enforcement.

High, however, went further than the possible defections in the house in his pessimistic utterance.

"The nation's dry organizations are not adequate, as they stand today, to save prohibition," he said. "Why not call a layman's committee on prohibition?" he asked.

"Many of them are silent and some of them are disgruntled. Not because they are wavering about the prohibition cause, but rather, because they are wavering about the prohibition leadership."

He said that at recent Washington dry meetings the laymen were kept "decidedly on the outside," with the "professional" dry leaders and ministers dominating proceedings. The same sentiment had been voiced in some quarters before the series of prohibition conferences here but a reorganization of the high command effected at them showed mostly the same names that have been to the fore in years past.

The new appropriation for prohibition would make possible adding the 50 dry agents who, Director Woodcock says, are needed for adequate enforcement. It is understood the provision has been traveling a rocky path in committee sessions.

12 CRIMINALS FAIL IN PLOT TO BREAK JAIL

Dozen Desperate Prisoners Surrender Without Bloodshed

Michigan City, Ind. — (AP) — An elaborately planned jail break attempt failed at the Indiana State prison today when a combined force of guards, city police and firemen forced 12 desperate criminals who had gained control of their cell block to surrender without bloodshed.

The 12 men, most of them bank robbers or murderers, had overpowered their guard, Guy Burkleo, but not before he shouted an alarm to outside guards.

The convicts barricaded the doors and prevented prison guards from entering, but when city police set up machine guns outside of the door of the cell block and armed firemen augmented the watch on the walls, the men surrendered.

The 12 men were released from their cells by a key which prison officials said had been fashioned from a spoon by the leader of the plot, Joseph Burns, who is serving a term for participating in the Culver, Ind. bank robbery of 1925.

Prison authorities found several other indications that the attempt was well planned. One man had sawed away two iron bars when police gained control of the cell block and another had a rope ladder ready for use.

The "D" cell house, in which the attempt was made, was designed to hold 240 men but was occupied by more than 500 and the attacking forces had no idea how many of these were loose.

No shots were fired on either side. The prisoners apparently had no hidden firearms and guards inside the cell blocks do not carry deadly weapons.

MAY FREE SUSPECT IN TWO SLAYINGS

Fingerprints on Car of Slain Teachers Fail to Provide Clue

Blackwell, Okla. — (AP) — Sheriff Joe Cooper of Kay-co said today that Lyman Constant, held at Enid, Okla., as a suspect in the slayings near Tonkawa Sunday of Jessie and Jexie Griffith, school teachers, probably would be released. Sheriff Cooper said he had no other clues.

Finger prints on the motor car which the slayer apparently took over the night and later abandoned were indistinct and probably would be of little use, he added.

Sheriff C. E. Baker at Enid said it had been established one of the slayers was criminally assaulted before she was killed. Baker agreed with Sheriff Cooper in expressing the belief Constant was innocent.

Constant was released from the state hospital for the insane last Friday after being an inmate for eight years.

The victims were slain and robbed of their motor car while driving back to their schools after spending the holidays here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Griffith. Each was shot through the head.

CARMODY RECOVERING

Grand Rapids, Mich. — (AP) — The condition of Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, III with pneumonia in a hospital here, was reported by his physician to be improved today. His condition, however, was still serious.

Islam Massacre Of Chinese Claims 30,000 Lives, Report

Dispatches State All Old Men and Women Killed — Girls Enslaved

Shanghai. — (AP) — Details of the reported massacre of 30,000 Chinese by a Mohammedan army in Kansu province published here tonight by the vernacular press indicated the slaughter may have been worse than at first stated.

Dispatches from Lanchow, Kansu, which required one month to arrive here, said in addition to the slaughter in the northwestern part of that province, Islamites in the southern portion went on the war path late last month, killing all the old men and women and enslaving the girls.

Other advices said bandits and Mohammedans had carried out several massacres in Kansu in recent months and news of these murderous orgies had been withheld.

What has happened in Kansu this month remains conjecture.

Lanchow dispatches said the ravaging followers of Islam severed what communications' lines existed and censored all mail, plunging into greater isolation a region known as one of the most detached in the world.

News of the massacre first reached the outside world yesterday when a resident reported to have escaped from Lanchow, arrived at Lanchow, capital of the province.

Lanchow dispatches received here appealed to the government to send troops to oppose the Mohammedans, adding, "otherwise every living Chinese of northwestern Kansu, where Mohammedan authority, now reigns supreme, will be slain."

Activities of the Mohammedans, who were believed to be seeking to start a revolution against the Nanking government, were said to have extended over a period of two months. Several towns were reported to have been destroyed by them in their reckless orgy of killing and looting.

Dispatches described horrible scenes. On one occasion an army of Mohammedans "entered a town of 20,000 inhabitants, looted everything and then killed every person before burning the town, with its streets piled high with corpses."

"The Mohammedans entered another village," dispatches continued, "threw up 4,000 men, shot them all, then left, taking the women as prisoners. The children were abandoned destined to freeze or starve to death."

4 Brothers Renew Feud In Indiana

One Dead, One Held in Attempt to Seize Alleged Slayers of Father

Salem, Ind. — (AP) — Search widened today for two of four brothers who revived a Tennessee feud Saturday night, and attempted to gain custody of two alleged slayers of their father held in jail here.

The youngest brother, Otis Gibson, was shot and killed by Elmer Gerald, town marshal, after he had critically wounded Gerald; another, Gilford Gibson, surrendered to a posse yesterday, and the others, Dan and Alonzo, were objects of a hunt by posses. Conflicting reports of their whereabouts included one that a neighbor had spirited them away in his automobile.

Gilford Gibson, was said by officers to have fired the shotgun charges that wounded Sheriff Milton "Trickle" and his wife, Ida, when they refused to hand over the keys to the cell where John and Pleas Spurlock were held in connection with the slaying near here Dec. 14 of Patton Gibson. Gilford insisted Alonzo did the shooting. The Spurlocks were taken to another county when the Gibsons fled after an alarm was raised.

Patton Gibson's death was attributed to feud activity by officers who were told he had recently gone to West Virginia and killed his fifth man, reported to have been the father of the Spurlocks. The Spurlock brothers were captured in Lee-co, Virginia, after Patton Gibson's slaying.

The feud was said to have had its origin when both families lived near Sneedville, Tenn., several years ago. Gilford Gibson in jail here, refused to discuss it.

Price Not Basis

Judge Jenkins said that the court was without sufficiently supported facts clearly to pass a judgment on the price involved in the merger. Also, he said, the Sheet and Tube directors and shareholders as well were without "any such basis for forming such judgment."

"Indeed, to put it mildly," the decision said, "it must be frankly said that in the present state of the record grave doubt as to the adequacy of the consideration exists."

The decision was written in pencil by the judge in a round careful hand on nineteen pages of foolscap paper. He made three copies himself, desiring that no mistake be made in having a stenographer or typist transcribe it.

One copy he filed in the office of the Mahoning-co common pleas court. The other copies were presented to newspaper men.

Judge Jenkins will take a vacation before resuming his duties at the courthouse. "The big job is finished," he said.

N. DAKOTA CAPITOL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Valuable Documents Lost When Statehouse Is Razed at Bismarck

Bismarck, N. D. — (AP) — North Dakota's government was without a home today and many valuable state and historical documents had been destroyed as a result of fire which burned the capitol.

Once the pride of the Dakotas, the four story brick structure which dated from the pioneer territorial days of nearly half a century ago was burned yesterday almost on the eve of the convening of the state legislature which was to have considered a proposal for a new building. Defective wiring was believed by state officials to have been the cause.

With most of its records destroyed, state business was thrown into confusion. Officials endeavored to arrange temporary offices and a meeting place for the legislature.

Estimates of the loss to the state ran upward from $1,000,000. The building itself was insured for $430,000 and its contents for $238,000. However, state officials said it would cost at least $1,600,000 to replace only such documents as could be duplicated from other files.

Among the papers lost were records of $5,000,000 in state land department investments and details of $10,000,000 in reports of the state treasurer.

The first unit of the building was constructed in 1894, five years before North Dakota was admitted to the Union, as the seat of government for Dakota territory.

JUDGE DECIDES MARCH 12 MEET WAS NOT LEGAL

Bases Decision on Negotiations and Fails to Discuss Other Points

AUDIT REPORT IS HIT

Court Lacks Facts to Pass on Price Involved in Merger Deal

Youngstown, Ohio. — (AP) — The proposed billion dollar merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company was denied by Common Pleas Judge David G. Jenkins today when he granted minority stockholders an injunction restraining the combination.

The decision was based on the merger negotiations and the subsequent meeting on March 12 of the Sheet and Tube directors. Considering these proceedings illegal, the judge saw no reason for going into the numerous controversial points involved in the Sheet and Tube stockholders meeting April 18 where the merger was ratified.

Judge Jenkins handed down his decision six months from the inception of one of the bitterest legal fights in corporate history, a struggle of millions that was carried out first with proxies and then with lawsuits. Forces marshalled by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier went into court with charges of fraud after a spectacular battle for proxies.

The judge said that the Sheet and Tube board of directors after they had approved the merger early this year, did not give adequate information to their stockholders on the merger when they met last April and approved it.

Whether intentionally or not the decision said, the three accountants employed to make the audit, of the merging companies, "deliberately delivered a misleading report to the stockholders."

The ratio of exchange of one share of Sheet and Tube stock for a share and a third of Bethlehem was also attacked. He said that his study of the accounting phases of the consideration "makes to my mind no definite conclusion possible that the final ratio was adequate."

Judge Jenkins said that the court was without sufficiently supported facts clearly to pass a judgment on the price involved in the merger. Also, he said, the Sheet and Tube directors and shareholders as well were without "any such basis for forming such judgment."

"Indeed, to put it mildly," the decision said, "it must be frankly said that in the present state of the record grave doubt as to the adequacy of the consideration exists."

The decision was written in pencil by the judge in a round careful hand on nineteen pages of foolscap paper. He made three copies himself, desiring that no mistake be made in having a stenographer or typist transcribe it.

Assails Dalton

The judge also censured the presence of Harry G. Dalton, partner in Rickland, Mather and company of Cleveland and director of Bethlehem, at the Sheet and Tube directors meeting March 12 when they ratified the merger.

Whether he voted or not vote on the merger contract his presence and approval of the merger at that time "were in equity a breach of trust against public policy."

This was one of the important points of attack by the merger foes.

"The evidence is clear to the court," the decision continued, "that he knowingly was not acting for all the shareholders of Sheet and Tube in that step was taken to delay advising them of the existence of, and the point to which the privately conducted negotiations had gone."

"He was therefore in this, not acting for Sheet and Tube but for the merger."

511 Americans Had Incomes Of More Than Million During 1928

OVER 5 MILLION EACH REPORTED BY 26 PERSONS

Treasurer Refunds Aggregate $126,836,333, Report to Congress Shows

Washington—(AP)—The high tide of 1928 in financial affairs brought the greatest harvest of incomes above a million dollars to 511 Americans. The internal revenue bureau showed this in its compilation made public yesterday. At the same time the treasury sent to congress the account of another rich reaping by taxpayers—refunds last year aggregating $126,836,333. This sum included $37,971,711 of interest. Also the treasury allowed as abatement $176,398,377 and as credits against unpaid income taxes $36,535,246. The total of refunds was way below the 1929 total of $190,000,000.

The 1928 receivers of millionaire income included 74 women, 29 of them single. Twenty-six persons received more than $5,000,000. These were spread over the map from coast to coast but 11 lived in New York.

That rich year showed total net incomes of the nation amounted to $25,226,326,510, more than two and a half billions higher than the previous year. The government obtained $1,164,254,037 as tax. Altogether 4,070,851 persons filed tax returns, but only slightly more than two and a half million of these were taxable.

The millionaire income class paid a total of $185,140,211 on a total income of $1,108,865,041, for an average of 15.90 per cent compared to 4.55 per cent as an overall average.

Salaries Biggest Item

Somewhat less than half of the total income, by far the largest single item, was accounted for in salaries and wages $10,862,330,998. Other sources in the order of their size were given as: Business, partnerships, profits from sale of real estate, stocks and bonds, capital net gains, rents and royalties, etc.

The 1928 tax refunds reported to congress included all those above $500.

The lists of receipts included: politicians, prize fighters and other public figures, while the biggest refund went to the United States Steel corporation. It received $15,205,342.

One of the world's richest men, John D. Rockefeller, also was one of the biggest beneficiaries, although he did not appear among the twelve who received a million dollars or more. His refund was $448,406.

Henry Ford received $48,600, while Ignace Paderewski, who has a residence at Paso Robles, Calif., drew $2,755.

Among other well known names were Senator Gould of Maine, $1,494; M. J. and O. P. Van Sweringen, a total of $85,212; William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey $1,114; Senator Couzens of Michigan, $3,677; Mayor Thompson of Chicago, $2,454; and William H. Vanderbilt, $2,304.

Among those receiving refunds, Governor Kohler of Wisconsin, his plumbing fixtures company benefit by $12,746, and Senator James Couzens of Michigan drew $3,667.

Michigan was listed as having 25 persons with incomes over $1,000,000 while Minnesota had 7 and Illinois 57.

2 WAUPACA-CO MEN GET CUTS IN SENTENCES

Governor Kohler Commutes Terms of Earl Meating and Guy Siegel

Madison—(AP)—Gov. Walter Kohler today gave one convict a conditional pardon and commuted the sentences of four others. Thirteen applications for pardon were denied.

A conditional pardon was granted to Edward Baumgartner, Milwaukee, who was sentenced May 23, 1920, to one to three years in the house of correction for obtaining money under false pretenses. The state board of control was named as his custodian by the governor.

Guy Siegel and Earl Meating, members of an automobile fence, who were convicted in Waupaca-co circuit court of 26 counts of receiving stolen property, received commuted sentences as did Clarence Dunham, Racine-co, and Emil E. Kretlow, Marathon-co.

Meating's sentence of two terms of two to four years, consecutively, was commuted two terms of one to four years to run concurrently with the first two. Kretlow was convicted on 23 counts of embezzlement and three counts on issuing worthless checks.

UNCERTAIN WEATHER PREDICTED TUESDAY

Uncertain weather will prevail in Appleton and vicinity during the next 24 hours, according to predictions of the weatherman for Monday night and Tuesday. Similar predictions have been predicted throughout the middle west for the week.

Skies will be clear tonight, but will be cloudy by Tuesday, he says.

There will be no change in temperature Monday night, but by Tuesday afternoon the mercury is due for a drop, he stated.

Ideal weather prevailed in this vicinity over the weekend, mild temperatures prevailing. The mercury registered 30 degrees above zero Sunday afternoon.

Winds are shifting in the west and northwest, a good indication the colder weather is on the way. At 6 o'clock Monday morning the mercury registered 28 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 31 degrees above zero.

TURKS MOVE TO STAMP OUT ALL REVOLT SPIRIT

More Than 500 Arrested as Result of Outbreak Near Smyrna

Istanbul—(AP)—Stern measures were invoked by the Turkish government today to stamp out once and for all widespread sentiment favoring restoration of the caliphate.

More than 500 persons have been arrested in an aftermath to the revolt at Menemen, near Smyrna, last Wednesday, and it is understood that the chekas, or tribunals of independence, which in 1925 broke the back of the Sheik Said rebellion, may be reestablished to meet the situation.

Six military and civil officials of the government were arrested at Menemen, charged with participation in religious reaction. Twenty-six persons were arrested in Istanbul and all travelers arriving here from Smyrna are being subjected to police interrogation. Some officials at Manissa also will be arrested.

Premier Ismet Pasha, after conferring with President Mustafa Kemal Pasha, left for Ankara to introduce into parliament a measure which would give the government drastic powers in curbing adherents of the former Islamic regime.

Officials said that events necessitated the government's wiping out all adherents of the old order, admitted to number thousands.

The present campaign was precipitated by the attempt of allegedly fanatic dervishes, wearing the forbidden fezzes, to incite inhabitants of Menemen last Wednesday to revolt. The dervishes harangued the populace on the evils of the occidental hats and the new Latin alphabet and obtained a number of followers.

A young school teacher who protested and attempted to call the police was beheaded. The officials finally responded and in the battle which ensued three rebels and two gendarmes were killed, one rebel taken prisoner and four civilians wounded.

The caliphate was abolished by national decree in 1922. The last organized effort to reinstate it was in 1925, when Shukh Said and twenty-one of his followers were hanged after a subversive movement lasting several months.

Youth Faces Charges Of Slaying Girl

Port Arthur, Tex.—(AP)—Robert L. Williams, 18, University of Southern California and son of an Austin physician, was charged today with slaying a girl.

A murder charge was filed Saturday by B. T. McWhorter, assistant county attorney. The complaint was signed by Andrew Johnson, uncle of the girl.

Williams continued last night to deny he shot Miss Johnson, holding to the story told shortly after his arrest. He said he asked her to go with him to see the Rev. Glenn Flinn, Methodist pastor in Port Arthur, in an attempt to reconcile a quarrel between them over attentions a married man who was separated from his wife was paying to Miss Johnson.

The youth said he found the pastor busy in his study and when he returned to his automobile, Miss Johnson was slumped over in the seat. She had been shot once through the heart with a gun which Williams said he had had from a rifle in a university laboratory. He insisted he had the gun in the car for the purpose of shooting himself through the hand, to prove to the girl he loved her.

The Rev. S. W. Williams, Methodist presiding elder for the Austin district, Saturday night went to the jail to see his son.

"God knows I didn't do that," Robert exclaimed, as his father embraced him.

"I know you didn't," the father replied, "and we will see you through."

FARMERS WHO HAVE ALFALFA SEED TO SELL ARE SOUGHT

Outagamie-co farmers who have supplies of home grown alfalfa seed for sale are being asked by Gus Sell, county agent, to get in touch with him at once as he has received an inquiry from a wholesale seed house which desires to purchase a quantity of the seed. Mr. Sell has a list of several farmers who have seed for sale but he wants a complete list to give as many farmers as possible a chance to sell some of their product.

SERIES OF LOVE LETTERS MAY BE SLAYING CLEW

Notes Written by Confessed Murderer Placed Before Officials

Antigo—(AP)—A trail of love letters spanning 13 years, written by Curtis Cockerham, confessed slayer of John Murphy, 35, to the dead man's sister, Mrs. Rose Murphy Nichols, today were before authorities seeking to connect the sister with the crime.

The letters, most of them dated, began in 1913 and continued until 1929, Sheriff Tom Ford said. While Ford refused to divulge the contents of the letters, newspapermen who read them said that Cockerham proposed marriage in one, promising to provide well for and to be good to Mrs. Nichols. In another, they said, he "demanded" that she marry him.

Mrs. Nichols, 58, and her son, Lawrence, 22, are held in jail without bond on charges of accessory to murder. Cockerham is held on murder charges.

The mother and son were taken into custody after Cockerham, itinerant farm hand, confessed shooting the aged backwoods farmer in a purported plot to enable the Nichols to inherit the Murphy farm, on which they lived. Cockerham said he was to receive an automobile for the killing.

Arraigned, Mrs. Nichols and her son refused even to enter pleas. Their attorney finally answered "not guilty" after the court put the question to the couple twice without receiving a reply. They refused to comment on Cockerham's statements.

Several articles stolen in minor robberies in the district were discovered in the two-room frame farmhouse where the Nichols and Murphy lived, Sheriff Ford said. Among other articles taken by authorities was a marriage license issued in 1913 to Rose Murphy and Arthur Nichols. Sheriff Ford said Nichols lived with his wife but a short time and later was believed to have secured a divorce. He is believed to be in Ohio at present, the sheriff said.

Murphy, his head and shoulders shown by shotgun slugs, was found dead Dec. 23 in a woods adjoining his farm. Cockerham was arrested after officers followed a trail made in the snow by a pair of corrugated boots.

New York Police Hunting Jewels Valued At $200,000

New York—(AP)—About $200,000 in jewelry, lost, strayed or stolen in a Pullman compartment, a night club and a theatre, engaged the attention of police today.

Mrs. Edgar F. Luckenbach, wife of the steamship owner, reported that gems valued at between $100,000 and $200,000 were stolen from her on a recent trip to Palm Beach, Fla.

Miss Marie De Carle of Park-ave society, reported the loss of $16,500 jewels on a night life tour. "Texas" Guinan said that her $3,500 mesh bag disappeared at the Ethel Barrymore theatre Saturday night.

Mrs. Luckenbach is believed to have been followed when she boarded a train at the Pennsylvania terminal on Dec. 19.

A string of pearls valued at $100,000 and a pearl necklace valued at $20,000 were among the loot. Mrs. Luckenbach is the former Andrea Marie Fenwick, of Toronto, Ont., and Mr. Luckenbach's second wife.

Miss De Carle said she discovered the loss of her valuables the morning after a tour of four night clubs on Dec. 21. They included one necklace of 187 pearls with a diamond clasp, worth $14,000, and a clip pin set with 25 stones, worth $2,500.

Miss Guinan told police the mesh bag was taken out of her lap as she was applauding. It was a gift from Larry Fay, the comedian, she said.

Police are investigating also the theft of $10,000 in jewelry from the W. 80th-st. home of Henry Slack, a stock broker, and $5,000 worth from the W. 82nd-st. home of Philip A. S. Franklin Jr., son of the president of the International Mercantile Marine, both in the last two weeks.

"I know you didn't," the father replied, "and we will see you through."

RAIDS HINT WAR ON 2 GAMBLING SHIPS IN WEST

Question of Jurisdiction Left to Courts, District Attorney Says

Los Angeles—(AP)—Spectacular raids on two gambling ships anchored off southern California are said by District Attorney Burton Fitts to constitute a declaration of war on gaming outside the three mile limit.

As a result of raids Friday and Saturday nights more than a score of men accused of gambling or conspiracy to recruit patrons for gambling establishments were in jail.

The Johanna Smith and the Rose Isle, both of which once plied the seven seas, are the objects of Fitts' campaign. They have been operating more than two years and staying off official attempts to put them out of business with claims that their anchorage more than three miles at sea places them outside the jurisdiction of California courts.

The question of jurisdiction, Fitts said, would be left to the courts. "If the present charges are not allowed," he said, "others will be found and we will continue to harass the operators until they move away or give up."

Determination to fight the gambling barges was announced after investigators revealed the Johanna Smith's decks were protected by machine guns mounted in iron cages.

Points to Kidnaping

"They are a rendezvous of thugs and hoodlums," Fitts charged. He said the kidnaping of E. L. "Zeke" Carless, Los Angeles gambler, was connected with an attempt of gangsters to "muscle in on the gambling ship racket."

The operators of the Johanna Smith told the deputies who boarded her Friday night they would resist efforts to interfere. Seven men were taken off the Rose Isle, however.

Saturday night 42 officers returned to the Johanna Smith, took temporary charge and sent ashore several hundred fashionably dressed men and women who were found crowded about gaming tables. None of the patrons was arrested, but musicians and dealers employed on the vessel were held.

The Carless kidnaping preceded a gun fight in Long Beach between officers and three men believed to have been waiting for a boat to take them to one of the gambling ships. One policeman was wounded. Ralph Sheldon, former Chicago hoodlum, is being held on charges of assault with intent to commit murder. Checks given by Carless, allegedly for ransom, were found in the automobile of the alleged gangsters after the fight.

Drunk Fined

Tom McNeary, N. Meade-st, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty of drunkenness. He was arrested about 4:30 Saturday afternoon in front of the City hall on S. Oneida-st by Officer George Behrendt.

FAMOUS SHOWBOAT TO BE BURNED WITH COMING OF SPRING

Mound City, Ill.—(AP)—When the first freshets of spring swell the current of the Ohio river, the famous old showboat "French's New Sensation" will leave the marine ways to go to its grave.

Behind the old craft lies half a century of travel, bringing glamor and romance into the lives of thousands of people along the Ohio and Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The sound of hammer and saw will be heard, removing all that is valuable.

Then billows of smoke and tongues of flames and the charred hull will go down the river where its ribs bleach on some lonely beach of the Ohio. Captain French, builder of the boat has been dead 25 years.

The heyday of the showboat business was over with the coming of the movies, the automobile and hard roads. But when the "Sensation" was in its prime, the strident strains of its calliope called the folk from cotton plantations, from farms and from cities. Timorously they crossed its gangplank to catch with peering eyes the thwarting of the evil designs of the villain of melodrama—the timely entrance of the stalwart hero, and the falling of the curtain on a happy ending.

STEEL INDUSTRY OPTIMISTIC WITH APPROACH OF 1931

Look for Immediate Improvement After Start of New Year

Pittsburgh—(CFA)—Everyone in the steel trade is glad the year is coming to an end, since it has been the regular thing for steel to register an improvement with the turn of the year.

The last few weeks have been particularly trying on account of the rigidity with which buyers have held down their commitments, appearing to take the greatest pains not to specify a single pound more than would absolutely be needed to complete the year's work, and almost instant shipment has generally been insisted upon.

With such buying practices, some sort of rebound would seem inevitable as the whole thing is largely a matter of Jan. 1 inventory. It is not doubtful about prices, for steel prices are now admittedly steady all along the line, and that was not the case prior to a few weeks ago.

Steel producers are certainly not overly sanguine. It will not take much increase in tonnage to meet their present expectations, at least for the next few weeks. Perhaps if there were more consulting of the statistics and more reliance on them there would be higher expectations.

TALK OF THIRD PARTY QUIETING AMONG LEADERS

Western Republicans See No Hope for Movement at Present Time

Washington—(AP)—The hue and cry of recent days over a third party movement appeared considerably cooled today, as political weathermen forecast a continuance—until 1932 at least—of things much as they are now.

An intensification or a spread of the independence of the western Republicans, who have already caused party heads much worry, apparently was read in the signs of Senator Borah of Idaho, one of their leaders, as for a third party.

"I do not see any new party," "But," he said, "I do see some realignments which will be evidenced more in legislative matters than in open announcements upon the part of either leaders or constituents. That has already taken place to a marked degree."

The western band appeared disposed to follow in this both Borah and Senator Norris of Nebraska, who has refused to leave Republican ranks to head a third party. There were indications most of the independents would remain within the fold until the 1932 national convention at least. Norris yesterday made clear also that he had not promised any support to Governor Roosevelt of New York should the Democrats pick him for the presidency.

View of Senator Moses

Another "status quo" prediction came from Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, one of the Republican party leaders, in a discussion of the new over Norris and Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee.

"My present opinion is that Senator Norris will not be read out of the Republican party and that Mr. Lucas will not be deposed from his office in the national committee," he said at his Concord home.

From Miami Beach, Fla., Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, chairman of the campaign funds committee, rebuffed the demand for an apology issued by Republican Treasurer Nye because Nye had described as a "slush fund," a national committee account used by Lucas as security in financing anti-Norris secret literature.

"It is barely possible," said Nye, that further investigation may reveal that the $10,000 was not a slush fund. However, the committee already has as a part of its record testimony that the money was on deposit as security for other funds which were used for baseless and shameful purposes in connection with the fight centering about Senator Norris."

The diversity of issues attracting independents within the major parties was cited by Senator Borah as sound reason against formation of a third political unit.

My observation and my reading, he commented, "lead me to the opinion that new parties cannot be successfully organized by a few men or by a few leaders, however, able and sincere they may be. New parties have come up from the grass roots. It takes some single dominating issue accompanied by a dramatic crisis to swing people from their old political moorings and place them in new positions."

There are at least four or five vital issues before our people and a new party could not agree upon a platform on all of them or could not satisfy the constituencies on all of them any more than can the old parties."

New York Prepares For Public Ownership Of Subway, Elevated

PROPOSED DEAL INVOLVES FUND OF 490 MILLION

Agreement Still Awaits Official Action by All Parties

New York, (AP)—A half billion dollar loan for municipal acquisition of New York's subway and elevated systems has been struck by negotiators for the city and the companies which own the transit lines. Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the city, and Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the Brooklyn-Manhattan transit and the Interborough rapid transit directorates, have agreed on municipal purchase of the transit properties of the two lines at a figure of $489,804,000. Their agreement is binding neither upon the city nor upon the stockholders of the two lines, but it will be placed today before the city transit commission and, if it is approved there, the owners of the lines will act upon the proposed sale. The agreement was hailed as the most forward step taken in New York's transit problem since the legislature authorized New York, in 1921, to unify its rapid transit facilities. Mr. Untermyer has represented the city without fee in the negotiations.

The B. M. T. would receive $218,300,000 for its subway and elevated lines and its power plant in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn. The I. R. T. would get a gross price of $276,504,000 for its subway and elevated lines.

Meet Great Problem
Subway maintenance and extension at a 5-cent fare has long been the most complex problem of the municipality of Greater New York. The companies, seeking a fare increase, have met a solid phalanx of opposition from officials. Contending that extension of their lines to meet the city's growing needs is impossible at a nickel fare, they have seen the city build many miles of its own subway and lease the lines to one company or the other for operation.

By an involved financial arrangement the city has thus acquired an increasing equity in the two transit properties, always with the view that eventually the city would acquire both systems and unify them so that duplication of service might be avoided and one fare would enable riders to use both lines, instead of paying an additional fare when it is necessary to transfer from one system to the other.

The original city subway line was financed by August Belmont and associates in 1900 and was put into operation in 1904 from Brooklyn bridge to the Bronx. Subway lines of one company or the other extend now into every one of New York's five boroughs except Staten Island, and the city contemplates a tunnel under the narrows in New York harbor which will carry subway transportation thither by way of Brooklyn as soon as a unification system can be worked out.

The B. M. T. or the I. R. T. control the city's elevated systems, dating back to the eighties. The city's policy contemplates the gradual supplanting of elevated lines by subways. Many of the present elevated trestles were built for wooden cars and are not stout enough to support steel trains.

FIND POISON IN BODY OF CIGARET SALESMAN

Norfolk, Neb.—(AP)—County Attorney Hadley Kelsey today said poison had been found in the viscera of Theron T. Spoor, 21-year-old cigarette salesman, who died here last Friday under mysterious circumstances. A chemist who examined the viscera today reported to county authorities that he had found sufficient poison to cause death. A coroner's jury, which heard the testimony of several witnesses, adjourned yesterday pending receipt of the chemist's report.

Spoor died in an ambulance while being taken to a hospital from his apartment where he was found suffering from a blow on the back of his head. After a post-mortem examination, Dr. A. C. Barry said death was caused by the head wound, explaining that Spoor apparently had received a severe blow by a blunt instrument, at that time Kelsey and Police Chief John Pofahl said they believed Spoor fell and struck his head on a fixture in the bathroom. Spoor's mother, Mrs. Sidnie Spoor, lives at Maryville, Mo.

150 COURT ATTACHES ORDERED TRANSFERRED

New York, (AP)—The greatest shakeup in the history of New York city's magistrate courts was announced today by Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan. He said he would transfer 150 court attaches Jan. 1. The shakeup was no reflection on those involved, he declared, and did not result from an inquiry which disclosed allegations of wholesale "framing" of squad policemen, bail bond corruption, and other charges.

He said he was following a system of periodic transfers started when he became head of the magistrates' bench. Cooperating with the chief magistrate, Police Commissioner William J. Donovan transferred all warrant officers in the magistrates' court to new posts.

Artificially Created Life Cell Used In Struggle To Solve Cancer Mystery

Cleveland, Ohio.—(AP)—The artificially created life cell of Dr. George W. Crile is an attempt to penetrate the mystery of cancer. The Cleveland savant broke his silence about the recent rumors of his discovery and revealed the secret of the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

Crile's accomplishment is described most simply as breaking Humpty Dumpty to bits and putting him together again so that he appears alive.

The Humpty Dumpty he employs are cells, the tiny units forming

NORTH AMERICAN IS ONE OF OLDEST HOLDING GROUPS

Controls Utilities in Middle West, District of Columbia

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
(This is the sixteenth article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York.—One of the oldest of public utility holding companies, have been incorporated in 1890. North American controls electric light and power subsidiaries in Wisconsin and Michigan, in Ohio, around St. Louis and in the District of Columbia. It is also a large stockholder in Pacific Gas and Electric, which company will be treated later in this series. Presumably North American has been affected by the current industrial depression but electric output for the twelve months ending June 30th last was up from the corresponding period in the year prior and over the longer term the record is one of consistent growth. Subsidiaries have a large funded debt amounting to nearly $390,000,000 and preferred stocks of over $170,000,000, interest and dividends on which come ahead of the dividends on the holding company shares.

There are two issues of North American stock, a $50 par 6 percent cumulative preferred outstanding to the amount of $30,333,900 and a no par common outstanding to the amount of 6,135,414 shares. The preferred rate has been paid on the preferred since issue nine years ago, and it ranks as a conservative investment. Callable at $55 per share, possibility of market price appreciation is limited, but the yield of around 5 1/2 per cent at the market is generous considering the high degree of safety. In 1929 the sum of $47.48 a share was earned on the preferred against the dividend requirement of $3 a share and fixed charges and preferred dividends taken together were covered 1.65 times.

Earnings available for the common have had a steady upward trend since 1925, net per share last year being $4.32 which the stock market has always capitalized liberally. This is partly because of the record of expansion and partly because of the common dividend policy which is to pay in common stock conserving cash for corporate activities.

Large company arranges to sell stock dividends at the market and remit the proceeds to such shareholders as request it. This gives a high yield as long as the market price of the common stock is stable and a higher yield if that market price is advancing, but the reverse is true when the market is declining, all of which the buyer should take into consideration.

MAIL PLANE MISSING

Agadir, Morocco.—(AP)—A mail passenger plane of the Paris-Buenos Aires line was missing today with four passengers, including the Italian consul at Fez. It left Dakar for Toulouse but disappeared between Agadir and Juby. Two planes from the Agadir airport which went out on a search returned without having discovered any trace of the missing ship.

Mrs. P. F. Tarcin, Milwaukee, spent the weekend visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Chamberlin in this city.

bodies of animals, which are the prototype of all eggs.

He has tried this on brain, body and cancer cells, but the brain cell alone thus far has shown the master like qualities necessary for the rejuvenation.

When cancer cells were used a different effect was found, one whose significance has not been determined. Crile said this is a preliminary report.

"The research," he said, "was undertaken for the purpose of discovering some physical principle which might account for the conversion of normal cells into cancer cells, this is, into cells the energy of which is used only for growth."

This world growth is the outstanding characteristic of all cancer.

Crile said he went to work on the principle that the fertilized eggs of animals, the ovum, contains elements that electrically are both positive and negative.

He "postulated" that if the substances forming a living cell were arranged together properly in an electrical solution, called an electrolyte, these substances would organize themselves into a "unit which would present a cell-like form."

In other words, something lifelike might result without intervention of the usual union of male and female elements.

He separated brain cells into their constituent fats, proteins and ash. He found that only fresh brains retained the power to reunite, but that by preserving the fats in ether could wait perhaps a month after death and still get the return.

When ready the three brain substances were mixed in distilled water containing some salts, a laboratory made substitute for the watery elements in which the brain cells normally live. The salts produced the electrical effect.

In this water the scattered brain matter reunited into microscopic objects having the shape of cells, a nucleus or center, and hairlike projections. They grew like living things. Sometimes, said Crile, they did this by putting out buds and sometimes by dividing, each artificial cell thus becoming two, just as in nature's method of growth.

They consumed oxygen and they gave off carbon dioxide as do other living, breathing things.

They showed the power of rapid movement, so that sometimes it was difficult to keep them under the field of the microscope. They took "vital stains" which is a method of using dyes to make tiny objects visible.

"This experiment," said Crile, "revealed clearly that the brain fluid is unique in being the possessor of a structure that has the power of organizing the proteins of any organ."

By feeding these cells were kept alive as active for two and one-half months.

But cells from other organs of animals gave "only feeble reactions and no power of organization." The artificial recreation did not work on other company (Bethlehem), even though honestly intending to act in what he believed to be for the best interests of Sheet and Tube."

The divergence of the auditors made the merger by both Ernst and Ernst accountants employed by the opponents, and Price Waterhouse whom the merger negotiators hired, was due partly to the limitations placed upon the latter by their clients, and partly to a lack of uniform accounting practices, the decision said.

Price Waterhouse, the judge said, "were arbitrarily required to formulate a ratio of exchange of stock in the merger deal practically exclusively on 1929 earnings."

"In fairness to the able experts who undertook the work they were so restricted in the limitations imposed by their clients that their recommendations could hardly be called their best judgment. It was certainly not their untrammelled judgment," the decision said.

Ernst and Ernst, which court described "as 'very capable'" arrived at such a different ratio for an exchange of stock in the merger, "that their conclusions if accepted would show the consideration agreed upon to be shockingly and grossly inadequate."

Terms of the billion dollar deal provided for Bethlehem to acquire Sheet and Tube, a $235,000,000 corporation, on the basis of one and one-third shares of Bethlehem common stock for one of Sheet and Tube stockholders gave their assent April 9, but more than 200,000 of the affirmative votes, a deciding number, were challenged by the anti-merger forces.

Among those who led the fight for the merger were the veteran steel man, James M. Campbell, chairman, and Frank Furness, president, of Bethlehem; and Henry G. Dalton, a director in both companies.

Eaton, organizer of the $550,000,000 republic steel corporation, and largest stockholder, through his holding companies, in Sheet and Tube, led the opposition.

The actual plaintiffs were the International Shares corporation, an Eaton investment concern, and Myron Wick, Jr., Youngstown broker, whose heirs continued as complainant after his death from pneumonia, which was brought on by strain during the court battle which lasted nearly three months.

One other death occurred during the hearings, the suicide of Leroy A. Manchester, chief counsel for Sheet and Tube. His act was laid to overwork and nerves.

all brains. It failed on dogs, which died of distemper, and partly failed on rabbits that died of exhaustion.

Ultra-violet radiation killed the rejuvenation power and Crile says, "It would seem that the lethal effect of radiation must be exerted on the lipid (fat) elements of cancer cells."

"The lipoids and proteins extracted from a cancer when mixed with a solution of the ash of the same cancer did not produce cells but a bizarre structure characterized by the appearance of many fatty droplets."

ANOTHER COXEY'S ARMY MAY MARCH ON TO WASHINGTON

Threat Apt to Be Carried Out if Plan for Unemployed Relief Fails

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.
Washington.—General Jacob Sechler Coxey, who made unemployment famous, may be leading another jobless army to Washington before the winter is over.

So far, that's just a threat. But, it may be necessary, Coxey says, because this is the worst depression the country ever had and nobody is doing anything effective about it.

Many importunate would-be lieutenants have been urging upon him a march patterned on that which Coxey led here in 1894. But Coxey has a bill in Congress which he guarantees to pass.

The same bill he brought here 36 years ago—and if he can get a hearing on it before the House Ways and Means Committee he guesses there won't be any march.

Has Seen Committee

The old general is well along in his seventies now, but he remains spry, voluble and clear in mind. He has just interviewed the 25th and last member of the House committee on that bill.

"The fellows are ready to march again if they don't get a hearing," he says, "but nobody is now denying the terrible unemployment condition that we are in."

He was a few months ago the object of the march in 1894 was to show that there was such a condition. That Congress simply refused to believe it existed and all we wanted through that march was a hearing, which we got in 1895, with William Jennings Bryan as chairman of the subcommittee.

"Only 5000 people got to Washington in that march, but if there is another one it will be many times bigger. There are 6,000,000 unemployed now."

"Everywhere I've been in industrial states, it's frightful. We are in a dangerous condition because people are so desperate they are willing to do anything. Good spirited men of character are out of work, with no food; no place to sleep. They learned courage in the World War and if they weren't afraid to march toward death they won't be afraid to march to the Capitol. I saw hundreds of men standing in line in New York to be given a nickel apiece. Think of that!"

Cites Sale of Homes

"This depression is a lot worse because people have been in a prosperous state. They have had money paid down on their homes and now they have to sell the homes for a few cents on the dollar. In New York city they sold 800 homes for taxes and that was the third such sale this year. People believed government officials when they promised permanent prosperity and now they are surrendering the things they bought on installment."

General Coxey, the country may be assured, isn't really hankering to lead another army. He only led one and is quite out of the habit now. Also, horseback riding does not carry its old appeal. Nevertheless, he isn't afraid of tear gas and there seems to be a likelihood that the Ways and Means Committee won't give him a hearing, and that his bill won't reach a vote. And no more earnest, persistent lobbyist ever worked in Washington. He has spent lots of time and considerable money here living at the Willard hotel. The money comes from his sand quarry business at Massillon O.

The Coxey bill, sponsored by Representative Campbell of Indiana, provides for non-interest bearing 25-year bonds of all states, counties and municipalities to be deposited in the treasury as security for an annual amount of legal treasury notes to be printed for and issued by those states and subdivisions. The money issued on the bonds would be paid back at the rate of four per cent a year—without interest. It would be used for public works and improvements.

Says Would Solve Problems

If this bill becomes a law, Coxey says, 6,000,000 jobless persons will receive employment. Everybody will be able to buy goods and the merchants can pay off the banks. States and cities would save 60 per cent in interest. Thousands of suicides, murders, holdups and cases of insanity would be avoided. Everyone would save 20 per cent in assessed taxes. Everybody would be very happy.

"The government," Coxey says, "would then function for the people and not for the banks exclusively. The bank credit system is now frozen and collapsed. Banks all over the country hold frozen assets in depreciated stocks. Merchants hold frozen assets in goods on their shelves. And here we are starving in the midst of plenty."

The big point in this bill as it affects unemployment is that it will enable communities to furnish jobs whenever the demand for production lessened and would turn the workers back to the factories as

DREAM CITY IS BEING BUILT ON SHORE OF LAKE

Work Progressing Rapidly on Plans for World Fair in 1933

Chicago.—(AP)—Out on the desolate man-made shores of Lake Michigan, the modern dream city that is to be the world's fair of 1933 is gradually taking shape.

Two and a half years before the opening of the "Century of Progress" exposition six buildings are up, three of them erected especially for the fair. Six others are to be started as soon as weather permits. A staff of 150 persons is working daily and the visitor hears wherever he goes, "we are 18 months ahead of any large fair ever held before."

Three fixtures of Grant park, the planetarium, the Field museum and that great concrete horseshoe known as soldier field, are to be made part of the fair.

Facing west to the Field museum and, in the distance, the lower end of downtown Chicago, is a bold green and gray structure of modernistic design, the administration building, control point of the fair, already alive with people.

Back of it is a bleak strip of water, partly covered with ice. Gulls swoop down upon it now, but the world's fair worker sees only a beautiful lagoon, slow moving gondolas, the reflection of thousands of lights.

Farther east across the lagoon is the planetarium, reached by a causeway. Alongside is a desolate, wet sweep waste, just dirt, ashes, street sweepings and whatever else Chicago uses when it wants more land and takes it by pushing back Lake Michigan. In the summer of '33 it will be trod by the feet of dozens of nations. It is there that the foreign villages are to be built.

To Wipe Out Hobo "Tomies"

The next group of buildings is to go up on the lower end of the island where hobo no more huddle in shacks that are half caves. They are the three units of the electrical industries display and will correspond to three similar units of the general exhibits group in corresponding position back on the mainland. Construction of both groups is expected to start next spring.

From the tip of the island back to the mainland a semi-circular bridge is planned, to be cut in the middle by the "pillar of light," a display of light and water.

South of the general exhibits group the fair grounds narrow down to a strip bisected by the through-traff highway. Months hence a group of Indian villages, miscellaneous exhibit buildings and probably an amusement group will be built there.

At the south tip of the grounds is the "travel and transportation" building, an immense red hulk with out windows. That big bulk over on one side is designed to hold a replica of an ocean steamship, and this unusual structure connected with one corner of the main building is the great dome, absolutely clear of pillars, suspended by cables, to cover a display of modern locomotives.

A grandstand, in front of which a transportation pageant will be staged every day, is planned across the road. Midway between the administration buildings, and occupying less space than either of them, is a copy of old Fort Dearborn, once all of Chicago. It was built to scale, the same type logs were used and even the hinges are hand-tooled metal.

The fort is completed. The illusion is nearly complete. But in the middle of one of the bunkhouses is an apparatus that would have mystified the soldier occupants of the 1812 model—a watchman's time box.

SECOND CHILD DIES OF SCARLET FEVER

Marjorie, Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Landis, Succumbs

The second death from scarlet fever within 40 hours, Marjorie, the two-year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Landis, 120 S. Oneida-st., died at 6:30 Saturday evening. Ralph Veri, Jr., the four-year old son of Dr. and Mrs. Landis, died early Friday morning from scarlet fever and pneumonia.

Survivors are the parents and grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bauer, Excelsior, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Landis, Waukegan, Ind. Private funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the home, with Dr. H. E. Peabody in charge. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Soon as the demand for production was restored.

"The whole trouble with this big idea is that it's altogether too simple."

Mellon Opposes Bill

Apparently the idea was altogether too simple for Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who opposed it in a letter to the House Banking and Currency Committee two years ago. Mellon said it was "in essence a flat money scheme" and that issuance of currency on the basis suggested by Coxey "would lead to such a currency inflation as would inevitably result in an immense depreciation in the value of the currency so issued, the expulsion of gold from the country, the destruction of the gold standard and ultimate financial ruin."

Coxey talked with Mellon about the plan once, and the nearest they could come to an agreement was that whereas Coxey said it would guarantee perpetual prosperity Mellon said it probably would wreck us.

In and Out

Because he opposed some of the strenuous principles of Soviet Russia's government, Alex I. Rykoff, pictured at top, has been stripped of the high official power he held in Moscow. First relieved of the post of president of the Union Council of People's Commissars, the equivalent of Premier, he now has been expelled by the Central Control Commission from the political bureau of the party. Vicheslav Molotov, below, long a staunch supporter of Joseph Stalin, succeeds Rykoff as head of the union council.

30 Hoover Commissions Crowd National Capital

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—There has been a story told here recently about a man who was found wandering on the streets and was picked up by the police. He didn't know his name, he didn't know where he lived and he didn't even know which Hoover commission he was on.

About 30 of those commissions are now functioning and even though many members do not reside steadily in Washington it is almost impossible to go anywhere and not meet someone who is attached to a commission in some capacity, subordinate or otherwise.

The Federal Farm Board, still struggling against the mighty wheat surplus, has published a pamphlet on feeding wheat to cattle, hogs, sheep, horses, chickens and Calvin Coolidge, Member Samuel R. McKelvie of Nebraska.

SPECULATE ON EFFECT OF CUT IN MONEY RATE

See Downward Revisions by Interior Banks After Jan. 1

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright 1930 By Cons. Press
New York — (CPA) — The extent to which banks outside of New York will respond to this week's reduction in the federal reserve rediscount rate from 2½ per cent to 2 per cent, and to the dropping of the rate on deposits by New York clearing house institutions from 1½ per cent to 1 per cent, was the subject of much discussion in banking circles today.
It is not improbable that after the first of the year, several of the federal reserve banks will reduce their rates from 2½ per cent to 2 per cent in order to cut down the "spread" now existing between them and the federal reserve bank in New York.
Adjustments by interior institutions to the minimum rate on deposits, which has just been adopted by the local clearing house association, are likely to be slow as there is more uniformity in such rates among banks outside of the metropolitan centers than elsewhere.
There have already been a number of changes in the interest rate on time deposits made by banks in different sections of the east.
Interest Lowered
A substantial group of New York mutual savings banks on Oct. 1 lowered their interest rates from 4½ per cent to 4 per cent. Others are expected to follow suit after January 1.
The general disposition, however, among interior bankers is to maintain existing rates on current accounts even though earnings on deposits invested in commercial paper and in securities of the type now most popular with these institutions are low. There was no increase in the rate to depositors last year when banks were lending their surplus funds in the call money market at between 10 and 15 per cent.
The reduction in the rate on deposits effected today in New York is looked upon as a supplement to the earlier drop in the federal reserve rediscount rate in the way of improving the prospects for the bond market. It is argued that corporations having large amounts of unemployed funds on deposit here will not be satisfied with obtaining a return of 1 per cent on them, the income to which is taxable, when they can purchase short term non-taxable government and municipal securities to yield between 1½ and 2½ per cent and taxable corporation paper on even better terms.
Cut Deposits
The individual investor who has been keeping his accounts unusually liquid is also expected to be influenced by the fact that his bank de-

'Mercy' Plea Expected In Chicago Case

Chicago — (CP) — The possibility that the questions of "moral rights" of a "mercy death" might be presented to a coroner's jury for legal approval loomed today as the county coroner prepared to hold an inquest into the death of Merle H. Hinkle, 21, a hopeless cripple since birth.
Merle was found dead last Saturday in a gas-filled room in his home.
With him was his father, Dr. Carl A. Hinkle, unconscious, with his arms enfolding the boy's body. Restored to consciousness, Dr. Hinkle told a dentist, said the boy had died of heart disease and that he, overwhelmed by grief, had attempted to follow him in death. Yesterday, however, Dr. Hinkle was reported to have said he was not sure that possibly he had mistaken a heart attack for death.
Blood tests were expected to determine definitely the agency that caused death, but regardless of the facts, Dr. John K. Jamieson, the Hinkle's family physician, said he intended to ask the coroner's jury to believe that whatever the cause, the boy's death was merciful.
"I often counselled Dr. Hinkle that no greater boon than death could be provided for Merle," Dr.
Jamieson said. "I knew the hopelessness of the case, the futility of all the efforts made to bring the boy to normal, the great sums the father spent, his constant devotion.
I knew the pitiful uselessness of Dr.
Hinkle's hope that for 21 years and him from this specialist to that, from one experiment to the other."

ATTACHES FIRE TRUCK

Pine Grove, W. Va. — (CP) — In case of fire, its likely the town fire department will have to call up J. L.
George and ask him if he'll let them use the fire truck. George has sued the town and has attached the truck.
Things got this way when Mr.
George, former recorder, told his lawyer the town owed him money for services rendered. He didn't attend the council meetings toward the end of his term, the town dads protest.
MORE PRIVATE PLANES
London — The number of privately-owned airplanes is steadily increasing in England. Nearly 300 men and women now operate their own planes and more than 24 own two or more ships each. Many business men are securing planes for their salesmen, and one quarry company uses planes to send out samples of stone by air to its customers.

HOLIDAY SPIRIT IN THE SENATE

Of course no one expected that when Director Lucas of the Republican national committee called Senator Norris a "consummate demagogue" he was going to get away with it without at least a few scratches. Nor was "demagogue" the only appellation hurled at this nomadic Republican who sleeps and takes all of his meals in the Democratic hotel for he and his kind were also designated as "wolves in sheep's clothing" and also as certain fatal growths known as "cancers."

With these fine evidences of the holiday spirit displacing the usual "Merry Christmas" the friends of Senator Norris have come back with a "Happy New Year," Senator Brookhart's contribution being that Mr. Lucas is a "malignant wart under the toenail" which is about the last word in senatorial courtesy. To be a wart is bad enough, for a wart, as every urchin stoutly believes, comes from handling filthy toads but to be a wart on a nether extremity clear down at the toe line is leaving nothing to the imagination. There could be but one thing worse and that is a wart not on the toe but under it. So Senator Brookhart has permitted Mr. Lucas to learn just how his physiognomy impresses the gentleman from Iowa.

This sort of a savage row in the Republican ranks has been caused at least to some extent by its lack of election prosperity, for a political party like the breadwinner in any home or the partners in some business venture, gets touchy, irritable and savage too when business is not going well and his partner would lay the blame at his feet for the thin condition of the larder. It is a well known fact that the leaders of factions contesting for the control of a political party become much more heated, desperate and unreasonable in their struggle with each other than they usually do with other political parties. Perhaps the next presidential election will furnish another reason for a wide open split in the Republican ranks, one like that which made the election of President Wilson in 1912 a certainty. If one side of the Republican quarrel consists of demagogues and the other side of malignant warts it might not be an inappropriate time to usher in other control.

GANGSTERS AND THE INCOME TAX

A fact of considerable interest to all honest-minded people is the increased respect being accorded the federal laws and the United States courts by the "gangland" of Chicago. Prior to the World war it was considered bad business for the crook to meddle with the federal government, but since that time the development of gang booze-running, racketeering, tremendous gang profits, and political protection have led this type of citizen to feel that he was a law unto himself, and able to defy even the federal laws and the United States courts.

It is refreshing to note the progress being made by the United States Attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, Mr. George E. Q. Johnson, in the prosecution of gangsters for evasion of the federal income tax law. Recently, convictions and indictments have been obtained against six of the most prominent and insolent of Chicago gangsters, men who have defied the law for years, and laughed their way down Main street.

In an interview given to the Chicago Tribune, Mr. Johnson explains that prosecution under the income tax law has been a "flank attack," and caught the gangsters unawares. It is the first real attempt made by the federal government to force crooks to make an accounting of illicit profits under the income tax law and thereby bring them within the jurisdiction of the federal court.

Chicago is fortunate in having a United States district attorney of the calibre of Mr. Johnson. Gangdom's contribution to local factions and political parties in return for which it receives immunity to violate the law, has no interest for him or the federal courts. He and his assistants have found a new way of reaching these malefactors, who thought themselves above the law, and his motto "Say it with indictments" is rapidly getting results and teaching Chicago gangsters new respect for the federal laws and the United States courts.

WHERE GOLD IS BUT A DRUG

A newspaper correspondent in looking around with the freshness and vigor of youth for a subject worthy of his pen determined to find out who is actually the richest man in the world. He produced something of a surprise. The title belongs not in America nor in Europe but to the Nizam of Hyderabad, an Indian prince, who is found to be worth fully or more than a billion dollars, invested in one of the most unusual ways in the world, for his fortune consists of gold, gold in coins, gold in bars, gold in ornaments, and diamonds, emeralds, pearls and the like.

It lies heaped up in a treasure house where the air is dank and foul and aside from its keepers it may be viewed only by the worms that crawl and the spiders that spin, with now and then a bat. This prince of India is living up to the fame of that fabulous land and to the infamy of his kind. He is living up to Lew Wallace's story of the Wandering Jew returning through the twenty centuries to the treasure house for supplies and then on, ever on in his unending quest for death. It brings to mind Kipling's unforgettable picture of the buried treasure house beneath the ruined and abandoned city with the white and deadly poisonous cobra sleeping upon a forgotten treasure ready to deal out instantaneous doom to any intruder. But aside from lore and fiction this great concentrated treasure might just as well be so much opium from whence arose the deadly and lethal fumes to drowse, enthrall and deaden a nation of millions. If a modern Aladdin could touch the forehead of this Nizam of Hyderabad and bring to him some appreciation of the possibilities of that fortune the Nizam himself could accomplish more wonders in his own land than all the geni of all the centuries ever did in children's dreams.

Gold is good when put to work but it must be kept at work, otherwise it weighs down mankind instead of helping it. The roads in India might be made smooth and hard and passable instead of being quagmires. This gold could do that. It could also fertilize the soil that has become sterile in many places from centuries of tilling. It could erect factories and buy machinery by means of which good clothing could be made to garb its destitute millions. It could provide hospitals with clean sheets, warm water and life-giving medicines to erase the terrible sores that cover its undernourished, impoverished, disease-ridden people. It could build homes to house human beings who now dispute a place on the ground with the beasts of the jungle and the animals of the field. In short it could be instrumental in picking up the teeming millions of India from their prone position on the ground, light their eyes with intelligence, their hearts with hope, help them to provide themselves with the wholesome comforts of life and separate them from their present position as full brothers to the ox. And think of the smiles that it could bring to lips now twisted in pain and grim with the harshness of unendurable life.

The Nizam of Hyderabad has withdrawn his hands from the privilege of conferring a great boon, a wonderful gift upon millions. But that is as far perhaps as thought will ever go. India will be India, indolent, diseased, enslaved and pathetic as long as it permits conditions that bring about treasure houses where great inactive fortunes become worse than no fortunes at all.

BACK AGAIN and probably no broker than usual . . . still trying to figure out the gag about the guy on the bus going to Green Bay . . . the guy was under the weather pretty much and kept bothering the driver with questions . . . "How farsh it from App'ton to Green Bay?" . . . "Twenty-nine miles" . . . "oh—well, how farsh it from Green Bay to App'ton?" . . . "Why you dumb suchandsuch don'tcha know any better than that?" . . . "scuse me, butcha see, less only a week from Christmas to N'Year, but iss dam' near a year from N'Year to Christmas!"

At least 1920 brought out a couple of good jokes: There's the one about the gangster who was an hour late to dinner and heard all about it from his wife. "I'm sorry, dear," he mumbled, "but I was arrested." And the head of the house yelped back at him, "Say, do you expect me to believe that?"

And the one about the New Yorker who remarked to a fellow citizen that he'd just seen the worst play of the season and the other fellow told him to cheer up—he'd just seen the best heavyweight fight.

Four lads from a Chicago dance orchestra were on the other side of the diner Saturday night. It may be noted that they take their work seriously and talk much and loudly about it.

Wild Bill was amusing the other night. "Have some olives," he said, passing an ashtray full of cigarette stubs.

But it didn't work out so well—somebody in the crowd was near sighted.

What some guys won't do. Down in Manhattan, the guy who invented a machine to prevent checks from being raised, has been given a life sentence upon his fourth conviction as a check forger.

We are a nervous people. In Manitowoc, a gun went off accidentally in a bank and before things settled down, there was a near-riot, a call for police reserves, plain and fancy panics and all the other banks got ready to fight off robbers. Today's Anniversary

ANDREW JOHNSON'S BIRTH

On Dec. 29, 1808, Andrew Johnson, 17th president of the United States, was born in a crude shack at Raleigh, N. C.

When four years of age his father died. So poor was he that at 10 he was obliged to seek work. At 14 he was apprenticed to a tailor and he learned the alphabet from a fellow-workman. Johnson never went to school a single day in his life.

When 18, he moved to Greenville, Tenn., where he worked as tailor. A year later he married Eliza McCordell, who taught him how to read and write. Johnson's enthusiasm for self-education led him to organize a debating society. Then, beginning a political career, he became successively mayor, state legislator, congressman, governor of Tennessee and United States senator from Tennessee.

He was Lincoln's running mate in 1864, and succeeded to the presidency on Lincoln's assassination. In 1867 Johnson suspended Stanton, secretary of war, who was reinstated by the Senate the following year. An attempt to gain possession of the War Department during this quarrel led, in 1868, to Johnson's impeachment, but the two-thirds vote necessary to convict lacked one vote.

WHAT TO DO WITHOUT TO-DO.
NO. 5.—BUT DON'T LET YOUR PATIENT DROWN

Asphyxia is a queer word, but we need not be afraid of it. It is derived from Greek words meaning not to breathe. It means to stop breathing, due to deprivation of air or oxygen.

Prof. Vandell Henderson, one of the greatest authorities, says that in drowning it is asphyxiation that causes death. He believes that the amount of water that enters the lungs in drowning cases is ordinarily small and practically insignificant, as such water is quickly absorbed by the lungs anyway and scarcely interferes with the resuscitation of the victim. That word resuscitation is another queer one, which we should not be afraid of; it is of Latin origin and means to revive.

If we accept Professor Henderson's dictum, and I'm afraid we must, it puts the Red Cross and me in an awkward position. Here for years the American Red Cross and the called National Society of Life Savers, and a lot of lesser organizations, have been teaching the first aid that the first thing one should do when a victim is rescued from submersion is to place the body prone and then clasp your hands under the belly and lift the body in the jack-knife position, in order to drain the water from the breathing passages. This maneuver, the Red Cross and allied bodies taught in the published first aid manual up to a year ago. Then the jack-knife stunt was quietly dropped, together with the picture of it, from the first aid manual.

So that lets the Red Cross out, safe on first base. But look where it leaves me. Here for years I have interspersed my aspirations with the Red Cross and addressed audiences showing how the hand or arm under the head forms such a trap, and how the proper position, as directed by the discoverer of the prone pressure method not only favors drainage of any fluid from the breathing passages but provides against any obstruction of breathing by mud or sand. But along comes Professor Henderson, whom I scarcely dare to challenge, yet—and assures me that "it is true that water will not run out as easily with the head supported on an arm. But it is not necessary for water to run out, for it has been shown that it is quickly absorbed even in considerable amounts from the lungs."

That dashes it. But the fight is not over. No, no. Having argued Professor Henderson out of the great anguish his opinion had caused, I asked him if there is any sound objection to the cheek on the ground, as taught by Schafer himself. In reply the professor said that in mines, where artificial respiration is applied, there are like to be puddles of water on the ground, and an unconscious man may be drowned by being placed face down in such a puddle.

I think I have the professor here. As a common sense question, would any child, halfwit or normal person with enough intelligence to apply artificial respiration permit the victim's nose or mouth to remain under water, sand or mud?

The campaign to get the arm out from under the head goes forward with unremitting zeal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Keep Your Teeth and Your Change

1. What should one eat in order to have solid teeth and healthy gums? 2. Last year I read of some great doctors who said if a person eats certain foods the fillings in the teeth would be evicted as the teeth would come back to normal again. . . . (E. C.)

Answer.—1. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for Instructions for Preservation of the Teeth. 2. I bet the great doctors worked on the Lackawanna and referred to the biscuit served on the line.

—they push-a-push fillings out if one isn't careful. I think you read something about the observations of Julian D. Boyd, M. D., and C. L. Drain D. D. S. on the arrest of dental caries in children who were receiving treatment for and diet for diabetes. This physician and dentist concluded that a diet rich in mineral salts and vitamins does favor spontaneous healing of cavities in the teeth of children. This is covered in my instructions for the preservation of the teeth.

Varicose Veins

Is the injection treatment for varicose veins satisfactory when the condition is a varicocele? (L. H. W.) Answer.—Not to my knowledge. The ordinary surgical treatment of varicocele is so simple and satisfactory that there seems no particular occasion for any other method. As a rule varicocele requires no treatment.

Colitis Troubles Smoothed Out

I hope that some day you will be rewarded for all the good you are doing. I suffered for years with colitis and was in despair following an operation which failed to benefit me. One day I saw in your column the suggestion that whole flaxseed and bran were good. As soon as I commenced taking these foods I began to recover. I am now in good health and have never had a recurrence of this trouble. Many thanks. (Mrs. E. V.)

Answer.—I'm glad to know you are better, but I suspect the operation or other treatment had more to do with your recovery than did the adoption of flaxseed or bran, the I believe these things are often beneficial for those who have chronic mucous colitis. Likewise I believe such invalids or cranks (you pay your money and takes your choice) often do better to include plenty of raw fruits and fresh greens and raw vegetables in the diet than they do on a carefully refined or "soft" diet. For it is difficult for them to get the vitamins they need from refined food.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites were quite amazed as all the dancers' arms were raised and wild-like shouts just filled the air. It was a funny sight. The dancers, lumped like crazy men and then began to hop again. Said Clowny, "You would think that they were in an awful plight."

"I've danced myself, but not like that. I know that I would fall down flat if I attempted bending over far, like those men do. They keep their balance mighty well and, golly, listen to them yell. It's kinda fun to watch, but I'll be glad when they are through."

The dance went on for quite a while. It seemed they traveled near a mile by running round in circles. Then the men began to tire. Soon, one by one, they all dropped out. Each finish step came with a shout. "They sure were great," said Scouty. "Gee, what more could we desire?"

The Travel Man then had a thought. Said he, "I really think we ought to turn in pretty early. I've a big surprise in store. You all can sleep till night is gone. Then, with the coming of the dawn, I'll lead you out to something that will bring a cheerful roar."

Then, as they slept the Travel Man thought, I will do the best I can to make them all feel happy. I'll buy candy for the bunch. When they awake on Christmas morn, not one of them will feel forlorn. And he was right. The Tynmites proved he'd had a happy hunch.

At break of day he led them to a tree. The next thing that they knew, he started handing candy out. And then he shouted, loud, "A Merry Christmas, everyone. Just eat

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—There can be no doubt but that failure of James J. Davis to put in his appearance to take the oath as United States senator was the high spot of the opening of the final session of the 71st congress.

Even the rioting of communists—fisticuffs and tear bombs—did not stir as much interest as Davis' absence.

The new Pennsylvania senator was on the hill. During the time the senate was in session he was in the office of Senator Watson, the republican leader. But that was as near as he got to the senate itself.

With the exception of Davis' absence the opening day was much the same as it always is. There seemed to be more jubilation on the democratic side than usual.

For instance, Senator Barkley took it upon himself to read the credentials of Ben Williamson, the new democratic senator from Kentucky. All of the others were read by the clerk.

Gore Comes Early

And Barkley's voice was loud and filled with pride as he read, too. Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, was present despite the fact that he must wait until March 4 before being sworn in. He sat well down in front the entire time, his face wreathed in a smile and greeting various senators heartily.

It must have been a rather bitter pill which the republican senators Fess and Capper were called on to swallow. They had to escort down the aisle the centrist Vice President Curtis, where they were sworn in.

Fess, a little dignified man dressed in formal attire, clung to the arm of Bulky of Ohio, a man almost twice his size. And Capper, one of the thinnest of all senators, had to do the same thing for McGill of Kansas, the man who defeated his close friend and golf partner—Henry J. Allen.

Happy Greetings

There was much handshaking and backslapping all around. Smoot and Barkley met in the center aisle grabbed each other with both hands as if two long-separated brothers had found each other.

Hastings of Delaware made it a point to shake hands with every body. Thomas Heflin, looking a bit tired, entered the chamber stalling and shaking hands right and left.

McKellar of Tennessee hobbled in on a cane, the result of a recent automobile accident. But despite his injuries he seemed agile enough your fill and have your fun." The little band of Tynmites were quite a happy crowd!

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Puns are the particular vice of columnists. They are called the lowest form of wit and people probably say, "What else could one expect of a columnist?"

All right, but what about G. K. Chesterton? The "master of paradox" also is a master of punning. Meeting the English author, lecturer and critic here, I was tempted to beg him to "paradox me a paradox." I had always wondered what it was like to be a master of paradox.

G. K. C. cleared up the matter. He handed me a copy of his paper, "G. K.'s Weekly." And this is what the master had written:

"Once upon a time there was a mysterious and horrible thing called a paradox, with which I was accused of having dealings, but the actual nature of which I could never for the life of me make out."

"Sometimes I had a notion of going on a search for the meteoric monster; of following through the wandering wood the flaming and fantastic plumage of the Bird of Paradox."

"I remember that I even proposed, at the time, to embody the pursuit to be entitled 'Paradox Lost!'"

Two puns in as many paragraphs. "And though these original fancies have faded," he adds, "I have never really received any more reasonable or prosaic description of the nature of a paradox."

Nature Note

You can have anything in New York if you can pay the price. A trade union is going to have its annual dinner at a Broadway hotel in January. It wanted squabs.

"But squabs are out of season in January," the chef said. The union's president insisted on squabs. So the hotel's management conferred with a college scientist. The result:

Squab eggs were placed in incubators on December 1 with the scientist's word that the birds will be quite big of plumage, ready to eat on the night of the banquet.

Deems Taylor, the American opera composer, has switched from nose-glasses to horn-rims. The Central Park Casino, which is giving Sunday night celebrity parties for you know what reason, is supposed to enter to "the most exclusive patronage in the world, the average audience numbering less than 50."

H. G. Wells (yes, I know he doesn't live in Mahattan), like Hendrik Willem Van Loon, is an amateur cartoonist.

There's one old-fashioned restaurant on Broadway. It still displays a large sign, "Smoking by ladies not permitted."

REFUSE DISPOSAL

Editor Appleton Post-Crescent—In considering the question of "Incinerator vs. other means of Garbage Disposal," it occurs to me that it is a question of "Refuse Disposal" in its broader sense.

Once each year we have a Clean Up, and the City asks us to place on the curb such things as tin cans, bottles, old shoes, broken crockery, and many other articles too numerous to mention, for the city to dispose of.

Now that we have done away with the "Refuse Dump" what are we to do with this refuse that hogs will not thrive on?

That is why I think it is a question of "Refuse" rather than mere "Garbage Disposal" that confronts our city.

Yours truly,

BADGER MAYORS FAVOR FEDERAL AID FOR RELIEF

Many Municipal Heads Confer on Subject With Senator LaFollette

Madison—(P)—Federal appropriations to aid city and state governments with relief burdens necessitated by widespread unemployment are favored by most Wisconsin mayors who have communicated with Sen. Robert M. LaFollette.

The senator recently placed before the senate a score of letters from Wisconsin cities as well as from cities of other states in order to show sentiment on his proposal to extend federal aid.

Among the Wisconsin officials who did not favor federal aid were Mayors Otto Muenchow, Wausau and A. Mathness, Menomonee and City Manager E. J. Donnelly, Two Rivers.

Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee, was one of a number who favored federal aid. Local governments he said, "are wholly unequal to the task of coping with this unemployment problem. It is nation-wide in character and calls for remedies which the federal government can apply."

Mayor A. C. Hanson, Wauwatosa, blames speculation for the present economic situation. "In my judgment," he said, "the two principal contributing reasons are the absolute crazy, wildcat, real-estate speculation on every kind of stock imaginable, in most cases on the part of suckers who couldn't possibly margin their stuff and often mortgaged their homes to carry their holdings."

In the opinion of Mayor Rae Weaver of Beaver Dam, "starvation wages, high taxes and high rents is causing the depression of today." He adds that "automobiles, moonshine and buying on the installment plan is also doing their share to wreck business."

The mayors of several cities gave resumes of the local situation somewhat as follows:

Beaver Dam—200 unemployed; an increase of 100 per cent over last year; appropriations for poor relief of $1,000 to $2,000 greater than last year; approve federal aid.

Wausau—400 unemployed; appropriations for poor relief 20 per cent more than last year; disapprove federal aid.

Menomonee—400 unemployed; 100 per cent more than last year.

Jamesville—500 unemployed.

Racine—300 unemployed; 700 per cent greater than last year; appropriation for poor relief is $225,000 as compared with $25,000 last year; 50 per cent increase in number requiring aid expected during winter; approve federal aid.

Milwaukee—28,000 unemployed; appropriations for poor relief $180,000 last year, deficit $300,000 to $400,000; $750,000 to be asked for next year; favor federal aid.

Menominee—1.80 per cent of the population unemployed; appropriations for poor relief increased 400 per cent; expect 75 per cent increase in number requiring aid during winter; disapprove federal aid.

Wauwatosa—200 unemployed; 5300 families aided last winter; expect 12,000 will need aid before Feb. 1, 1931; federal aid "would no doubt be welcome."

Two Rivers—150 unemployed; 200 per cent more than last year; appropriations for poor relief $11,500 this year as compared with $7,500 last year.

Stevens Point—271 registered unemployed; appropriations for poor relief increased from $9,000 last year to $12,000 this year; expect 30 per cent increase in number requiring aid during winter; favor federal aid.

DePere—no unemployment problem.

Oconto—favor federal aid to the extent of 50 per cent.

Watertown—poor relief appropriations doubled; 200 to 300 per cent increase in number requiring aid expected during winter; favor federal aid.

Madison—3,000 unemployed; favor federal aid.

WORTH MORE YOUNG

Berlin—German girls are worth more when they are 15 than they are at any other age, a group of German statisticians have found.

Their value at 15 is about $10,000, it is said. At 30, this value has decreased to about $9,200; at 60 to $7,000 and at 70 $5,000. This is based on money value and value to the state.

Czechoslovakia's civil aviation budget for 1930 totals $1,086,000 and the preliminary budget for 1931 raised to $1,194,000.

STICKERS

Four men had an equal share in a field containing 12 trees, as arranged in the diagram above. How did they divide the property so that each had a plot of the same size and shape, with three trees on each plot?

SEAL SALE RETURNS PASS $1,600 MARK

Followup Letters Due to Be Distributed in City Next Week

With new returns coming in daily, Christmas seal sale receipts have gone over the $1,600 mark, according to Mrs. L. J. Marshall, chairman of the local drive. Follow-up letters will go out the first of the week, and Mrs. Marshall urges all donors to send in checks before then, so that both time and expense can be saved in the follow-up campaign.

The promotion of a high school and vocational students' health clinic is receiving a great deal of support from school officials and the Outagamie County Medical society.

The plans as tentatively outlined call for a three or five day clinic sometime in the spring. Definite dates cannot be set until Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association members set their schedule for the coming year.

This clinic, larger in scope than those usually held, will necessitate the expenditure of larger sums of money, everything is being done to bring the returns from the Christmas seal campaign up to the quota set for Appleton, $2,500.

BOOST FOR MEN

London—A group of famous scientists have been trying to figure out how much a person is worth to his country. They find that a man is more valuable than a woman. According to them, a man of thirty is worth about $11,830 to the country to which he belongs, and a woman of the same age is worth about $9,470.

POOR COST CITY $2,430 IN MONTH

Winter. Unemployment. Sickness Increase Expenditures

Winter, unemployment, and sickness pushed the expenditures in the city poor department up to $2,430.88 last month, the report of W. L. Lyons, poor commissioner reveals. In October $2,189.23 was spent on city poor.

A little over $40 was returned to the city during the month for aid given to non-residents.

A total of $516.52 was spent on nursing, medical aid, hospitalization and drugs for indigents, and one funeral cost $50. Board for indigents not living at the city home cost $114 and rent $525.33. Meats cost $29.98, and groceries $416.25. Of the latter amount $330.87 was expended in coal and fuel cost $103.55, which $12.53 went to fill the coal bins at the City Home, and $270.80 was distributed in outside aid. New blankets at the City home amounted to $24 and stock and poultry feed, $33.10.

There were 19 residents at the city home during November, and 53 families were given aid. In October only 38 families received aid, though there were 20 inmates at the home.

BUYING BABIES

Shanghai—The nuns of Siewwei Convent are paying 20 cents, to Chinese mothers to keep them from throwing unwanted babies into the river. Every morning from one to four babies are sold to the convent by mothers who don't want children. These babies are reared in Chinese homes and sent to school to learn a trade.

Your Outagamie County European tour party is leaving Liverpool. Behind, the fog and clamor of this bustling city; ahead a delightful trip to London. Some of your party have left you at Glasgow to travel through Scotland. These are the travelers who are embarking upon one of the optional extension tours. If your pathway leads with the main party, however, you now cross over to Birkenhead by ferry, breathlessly anticipating the pleasant miles ahead.

Soon you come to the historic and picturesque city of Chester with the ruins of Roman walls and churches bringing back your history lessons. Then Birmingham, and soon the landscape of the famous Shakespeare country.

Stratford-on-Avon, the heart of the Shakespeare country and the birthplace of England's immortal playwright, greets you. Here is Shakespeare's home, his memorial, the Memorial Theatre, and the tomb within the chancel of Holy Trinity Church.

Here, in this delightful country, you see Warwick Castle, "the fairest monument of ancient and chivalrous splendor which yet remains unimpaired by time", rising majestically above the Avon. Here, too, are the dream-making ruins of Kenilworth Castle, with their memories of another, far-away age.

You leave the Shakespeare Country and ride onward toward the University City of England... Oxford, with its mellowed traditions and marked contrasts to our American universities. It is here where our American Rhodes scholars study. Oxford is the city of spires. Here are the various colleges of the University—Magdalen, Braesenoze, Christ Church, St. John Balliol, New and others.

All the while you are nearing London. Now you pass over Magdalen Bridge and dip down to drive along the ancient Thames. Your first land journey in Europe is nearing its end. Soon you will settle down in your room in the largest city in the world, ready to begin your four-day visit there.

Your travels along the routes laid out by the travel-wise are impressing themselves upon you. Your remarkably low expenditure for this tour seems to be giving you more pleasure, more education, than you ever thought was contained in a dollar. You are glad you came.

Keep Books Always Ready For Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Oh, mother, look! Please get me a book."

"Why, child, you have a lot of books."

"Yes, I know, but I want another one."

A child who loves to read always wants another one. When it is possible he should have another one. Books are about the very best investment one can make for a child's recreational hour. The child of today must be trained to use leisure time profitably for it is becoming clearer every day that he is to have plenty of it. Books are one of the best uses to which such time can be put and the sooner the habit of reading is established and encouraged the better for everybody.

There are many fine books for children. The modern library offers the best of books for a dollar each. One has to be careful that the type is good, of the right size and clear, as poor printing and small type is not good for young eyes, and buy books the child likes from the list, which includes many of the masterpieces of the world.

Do you know The Little Library? It is a collection of lovely books for children. The books are small, clearly printed, and real. I have just finished reading Nathaniel Hawthorne's tale, The Snow Image, a delightful thing that children will enjoy in the hour before or after dinner. I believe it would pay you to become acquainted with this series.

I am going to give my favorite little girl a copy of Robin and Tito. Of all the stories I have ever read about Italy and the children living or visiting there, I like this one best of all. I laid it down with loud cheers for the author Miss Robinson. The donkeys of southern Italy deserve a story all to themselves, and when you add to a perfectly charming specimen of this donkey an adorable little Sicilian girl and the sportiest kind of a darling American girl, you have an unbeatable story of southern Italy. Even the bandits and the earthquakes and the blue grotto by the sea. You will have to have Robin and Tito for the little girl's other book, and let her brother or her "scout" borrow it. Any boy with his salt will fall in love with Robin and Tito.

If the older boy did not get a copy of Sons of Stevens Cities as yet, let that be his other book. The seven cities are seven great American cities and the story told about each is a thrilling tale of adventure. I am a New Yorker so that may be the reason I think the story of New York is the best in the book. I imagine the boy who calls Philadelphia home will disagree with me, and so will all the other lads who live in the other cities. But they will all agree that this is a regular book. The copy we have in the school library is being replaced with a dozen and the worn veteran placed on the reserve shelf.

When you want to make a child happy buy him another book. He has some, of course, but he wants another. It is as cheap as candy by the pound and it will continue to nourish him throughout the years. Now that I would have you forget the candy. A book and a box of candy—now you're talking.

National Capital Is Gay Over Christmas Period

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS (Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor.)

Washington—Christmas seemed to arrive stealthily suddenly and surprisingly this year, but for all that, society was ready for the holiday.

"Merry Christmas," said society, somewhat breathlessly. And it was a merry Christmas!

With holly-berry wreaths and red candles in the windows, evergreens, great and small, all very gay and bright in their holiday attire, and the old but, always new, friendliness of Christmas, the National Capital met the holiday.

It met it too, with gaiety and bells and teas and dinners and a long week of entertaining.

Young Allan Hoover was again host at a White House dance for the younger social crowd of the city on December 30. And the Cadet-Midshipman Ball, that annual crowd event of Christmas night, was one of the high points of the week.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff and formerly from Wisconsin, was naturally one of the sponsors of the service ball.

Miss Mary Isabel Dwight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dwight, formerly of Racine, entertained 20 guests at dinner at the Mayflower preceding the Cadet-Midshipman ball, and then went on to the dance.

Schneider Returns Home With Congress in session until the last minute Saturday, December 20—in fact still meeting a few minutes past midnight—it was a little hard to make congressional home-going plans, but some of the Wisconsin delegation managed to have a Wisconsin Christmas.

Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton, Rep. Melvin Hull of Black River Falls, Rep. Charles A. Kadane of Watertown, and Rep. Michael Reilly of Fond du Lac all went to the Badger State for the holidays.

Rep. and Mrs. Edward E. Browne of Waupaca, Rep. and Mrs. Henry Allen Cooper of Racine, Rep. and Mrs. John M. Nelson of Madison, and Rep. and Mrs. James A. Frear of Hudson were among those who returned here. However, it was a happy time for the Nelsons and Frears. Miss Grace Nelson came from New York Monday night to spend the holidays with her parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Frear and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Johnson came from New York to be with their parents.

Senator and Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., remained in Washington for the holidays, but still hope to get to Wisconsin for the inauguration of Philip La Follette as governor on January 5. Senator and Mrs. John J. Blaine of Boscomb left early Monday morning on a motor trip in the South, Atlanta, Ga., was one of their stops.

Miss Mabel Griswold, Senator Blaine's secretary, returned to Wisconsin and spent her holiday in Madison. Douglas Hartman, secretary to Rep. Schneider of Appleton, remained in the National Capital and took part in many of the affairs of his fraternity's National Convocation here. He is a member of the George Washington University chapter of Theta Upsilon Omega. Miss Becker and Miss Helen Stonedahl of Rep. Nelson's office force spent their holidays in Wisconsin.

General Douglas MacArthur was the guest of honor at a reception given Sunday by Major and Mrs. Parker West at their home in the Soldiers' Home here.

Children Entertained

Christmas being primarily a children's holiday, members of the Congressional club set out to see that the children had a wonderful time. Saturday, the club gave a tea dance and party for children from 4 to 14.

The members—and Mrs. John C. Schaefer, wife of Rep. Schaefer of Milwaukee, had the difficult task of keeping the fun going. There was a play lady, a Santa Claus, movies, and lots of refreshments. A slightly older set, but still of the "much-younger generation," was entertained by Miss Hanna Anderson and Hardeen Anderson, high school students and children of Col. and Mrs. F. M. Anderson, formerly of Madison and Augustus, Wis., at a dance at the Congressional Country Club the Monday before Christmas.

versity of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va.

Miss Rachel Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies, is a member of the "older girls' committee" arranging for a dance to follow the concert of the Cornell Musical club here on December 29. There is also a "debutantes' committee."

A group of about 75 American University students sang Christmas Carols on Dec. 17, and concluded their serenading by gathering informally at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman, formerly of Appleton.

Dr. and Mrs. Kinsman are spending their Christmas in Wisconsin.

Betas Hold Party

Beta Theta Pi fraternity, which claims Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., of Madison and Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck of the state department who took his degree at the University of Wisconsin, as members, gave a dinner dance Saturday at the Congressional Country club.

Other interesting alumni of the fraternity in Washington include Associate Justice Vandevanter of the Supreme Court, Senators William E. Borah of Idaho, William H. McMaster of South Dakota, and Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey; a large group of Representatives; William Hard, well-known newspaper correspondent, and Howard Sutherland, Alien Property Custodian.

It was very much a Wisconsin newspaper dinner, that given for Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brayton of Madison by Robert S. Allen and his wife, Ruth Finney, on December 21. The other guests were Miss Ruby A. Black, and Herbert Little, both of whom formerly did newspaper work in Madison—Miss Black on the Wisconsin State Journal and Mr. Little in the United Press Bureau. Mr. Allen formerly worked on the State Journal, and Miss Finney is a nationally-known Washington correspondent.

The Braytons had their Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. William Kittle, formerly of Madison.

Midshipmen Busy

Midshipman Louis J. Kirm of Milwaukee, better known as "Bullet-streak Lee" for his football prowess and speed; and Midshipman Dunbar G. Burdick of Utah, Walter Coleman of Illinois, and John C. Ogle of Indiana, spent their holiday with Rep. and Mrs. John C. Schaefer of Milwaukee, and did they have one grand time!

A condensed date book of their week shows: a debutante party at the Mayflower Saturday night; several teas and then a tea dance given especially for them by the Schaefer at the Mayflower Sunday; a supper dance at the new Shorham Hotel given for them by the Schaefer Monday; teas and more teas; dinner at Rep. and Mrs. Homer Hoehs' and thence on to a dance given by Congressmen Swing and Fulmer; a trip to Philadelphia, and the scintillating Midshipman-Cadet ball on Christmas night as an unbeatable climax.

Holiday? Good Time? Well!

Professor Lovell Joseph Ragatz, formerly of Madison and the University of Wisconsin and now a member of the faculty of the history department of George Washington University here, attended the meeting of the American Historical Society in Boston during the holiday period. Mrs. Ragatz accompanied him.

Guest at Luncheon

Miss Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, niece of General MacArthur, chief of staff, was one of the guests at a luncheon given by Mrs. Benjamin C. Ferry and her daughter in company with the Misses Eleanor and Margaret Peyton Calvert.

Polinetias decorated the tables with their great splashes of vivid red. The luncheon took place at the Mayflower Hotel on December 20.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Marsh, formerly of Green Bay, planned to attend the meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and affiliated scientific societies in Cleveland during the Christmas recess.

Dr. Marsh is now a member of the economics faculty at the University of Wisconsin.

LOWER PRICES ARE PREDICTED FOR NEXT YEAR

Cutting Prices by Mail Order Houses to Bring General Downward Revision

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Shoppers are going to be able to buy reasonably in 1931, whether there are bargain sales or not. Merchants now are going down their shelves and cutting down the quotations marked on their goods.

The reason for this slashing process lies in the fact that the largest of the mail order houses which also operates a large number of retail stores, has announced cuts effective Jan. 1 of from 5 to 18 per cent in the prices of its standard goods. This means that the other mail order houses, some of which also operate retail stores, will follow suit. The leading mail order interest has 12,000,000 customers a year and if other merchants find themselves out of line on prices, they fear that the big establishment may soon have hope.

Some merchandise experts attribute the price cuts to lower raw material prices. Others declare volume buying and efficient management are responsible.

Textiles Low
This is especially true in regard to textiles. The largest single selling item in the catalog of the big mail order corporation is cotton goods. They were cut approximately 18 per cent. Flat silk crepe dropped over 40 per cent and silk hosiery and woolen goods showed similar trends.

The cotton manufacturers are not particularly worried. They have been able to buy raw materials cheaply and have opened up hundreds of new outlets. What they are interested in is volume, and the lower prices seem likely to aid them in this respect at least. The silk manufacturers have bought Japanese raws at most reasonable prices and enjoy an excellent demand.

The wool weavers are in the worst position. "Button up your overcoat" is a popular refrain, but people have been buttoning up their old overcoats, not new ones. The wool industry, is just beginning to realize that the goods which were standard 10 years ago are not standard today, and it is seeking new and attractive and original designs.

They have been most successful with cloth for women's wear, but the demand for men's clothing has been poor for a year and is not improving materially now.

The demand for silk stockings is likely to expand rather than contract because the styles governing colors are changing. Colors are becoming decidedly darker and this will lead to additional purchases by many women.

These things are all being taken into consideration in re-pricing the new lines; but it is sure that if the cuts are not met, merchants must give their customers something more in quality or service, or else fall behind the procession.

My Neighbor Says--

A teaspoon of small pieces of white soap boiled down with one pint of boiling water, a teaspoon each of powdered ammonia, borax and sugar will make an excellent soap jelly.

When an egg has been boiled too long it can be softened again by instantly lifting the pan off the fire and quickly placing it under the tap, allowing a good stream of cold water to pour into it. The sudden shock from hot to cold has the curious effect of softening the egg.

Cup cakes are much lighter if baked in paper cups. Use two teaspoons of mixture to a cup.

Bone handles of steel knives may be whitened by rubbing them with a flannel cloth dipped in peroxide of hydrogen.

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water and allowed to come to a boil, and then to cool, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE © 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

At the door of room nine, where Mr. Merryman had been taken, Sue stopped and reached out an impulsive hand to pull Corinne away.

"We aren't going in! We don't have to humiliate him any more. Of course he knows we want to be there, but think how he will feel."

"I'm going!" Two bright red spots flamed in Corinne's cheeks. "And I'm going to stay until the end. He won't mind. Honestly he won't, Sue. And after all it's a family affair."

Sue shuddered. She was afraid of the scene that she would find beyond that door. The brusque commands of the officials. The grim mechanism of tragedy-working machines that could treat hearts as though they were surplus pages in a ledger. She wanted Jack to hurry. Corinne was pushing open the door and Sue followed.

Sue noticed that her father's finger spread out on the page of paper. She saw the attendant label the page when his hand was removed. And then her eyes met those of her father.

"This is terrible. It's... oh, it's worse than anything that ever happened to anyone!" Corinne breathed.

"It's a fine way to end your job, isn't it?" Mr. Merryman said, trying to laugh a little. "It's going to be all right. They'll find out the guilty person. Right always wins."

"If it has enough money back of it," a voice muttered somewhere.

"And this time it has," Corinne's voice was choked with passion. "And you'll be sorry... everyone of you... Oh, just you wait..."

"It isn't your money, Mrs. Becker," another voice joined the conversation. "This is merely a case of justice. If your father is guilty he'll pay the penalty. If he isn't..."

"You'll toss him aside on the discarded heap without so much as an apology. I know your way!"

The whole room was growing faint and far away. The voices were drifting in from a long, long distance. A light burned some place, through the gray shadows. Like a red light through fog, it seemed to Sue. She dropped her head on her chest. Someone had told her that if she ever felt faint to do it and she would recover. A silly idea, she was telling herself. Then she heard a voice somewhere.

"Steady, Sue. You'll be all right." It sounded like Jack's. And something was holding her, something strong and protective, so she wouldn't tumble into the gray nothingness which had been coming after that she didn't know anything.

A long time later, or so it seemed to Sue, she opened her eyes. She was lying on a couch in a dingy room whose high windows were barred. A woman who wore the uniform of a police matron was bending over her. She shuddered. Then she remembered that she had fainted. She tried to sit up. Her father needed her.

"You'll be all right in a little while now," the woman's voice assured her. "The shock was too much."

"Where's... where's Jack?" Sue asked in a voice that wobbled.

"Right here!" He stepped in from the doorway. "Someone called me out a second. Are you sure you're better, Sue? I'm going to take you home now."

"I'd rather go to the office," Sue answered. "I'll be all right."

Jack's words were very low. "Sue, the office is going to defend the bank against... you father."

NEXT: Sue questions Jack.

USE CREAM ON YOUR NECK TO BEAUTIFY IT

By Alicia Hart
It is amazing that so many fairly smart looking women care scrupulously for the face and let the old neck go sag.

Poets have written verses about the beauty of this neck or that. Artists love the pose that flings the head back and exposes the sweep of a softly rounded neck.

Perhaps the most unfortunate of all neck worries is that of the scrawny, wrinkled neck. Even a double chin has an air of well-being about it. The wrinkled neck looks unloved. Certainly it is unsung.

You can do much to all the wrinkled neck to take on the aspect of being alive and tenderly considered, at least. It may not respond the first day, or the first week. But certainly a neck that is labored over and given every care begins to look up and alive by the end of a month. Isn't it worth trying?

First of all, if your neck is scrawny, the chances are that the skin is dry and is almost crying out loud for nourishment. Give it plenty. Muscle oil, rich creams. Pat it, massage it, exercise it, bleach it and then oil, cream and massage it again. Keep at it. Make it realize your intentions and it will respond.

The special exercises for the thin neck are practically the same as for the double chin. These exercises, bending the head back, twisting it around, bending it forward, supinate circulation and break down fat and build up muscle strength.

Don't use soap and water on a wrinkled, crawny neck. Use cleansing oils with a lavish hand. Since the glands obviously are not secreting the natural oils that they should, substitute for them rich, nourishing creams. There are many on the market.

When you have slapped on a generous amount of rich nourishing cream, begin the slapping, jarring, massaging that the neck needs. Throw back your head and stroke your neck with firm pressure of the four fingers of both hands, from the chin down onto your chest, from the front back to the sides. Pat the skin. Slap it. Smooth it out from the center towards the back of your neck, and loosen the tension of the flayed muscles at the base of the head.

Give your neck a bleach if it has that discolored look. Butter milk is a harmless bleach, and if you use it every night for a time on your neck, you will notice the gradual whitening.

When you go to bed, wear a chin strap. But only after you have thoroughly saturated the neck with nourishing cream. And when you are making up, remember that your neck should be considered a part of the face and treated as such.

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

MINERVA'S MIRROR

Before one experiments with the dangerous and perhaps wiser conceptions of marriage and love of the 'moderns,' a woman should first satisfy herself that she has the character, intelligence and discipline to be successful in the simple, old-fashioned way.

A modernistic painter of real integrity first schools himself thoroughly in the classic ways of the academicians. He remains an artistic faker in the eyes of enlightened and forward-looking critics unless he himself can do what those whose lack of imagination and enterprise he criticizes have done.

A satirist, like an efficiency expert, can prove almost anything he wants to—but what we all know without benefit of statistics (an efficiency expert) is that the fundamental concerns of life are exactly what they have always been.

Cynicism dies and hope is born again when more complete reasoning reveals aspects of life and human conduct which hitherto had remained obscure and confusing.

A cynic is simply a confused person, but a skeptic is quite different. A skeptic is simply a gentlemanly cynic.

Frederick the Great once wrote: "It must be a consolation to animals to see that people with minds are often no better than they."

I won't be able to take this literally until I learn that animals have organized a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Human Beings.

To the apparently unsatisfactorily unanswerable question, "What is Art?" I submit the definition: Art is a means of expression which makes an epitaph of reality in terms of an individual.

What has become of the old-fashioned coward who used to hide behind a woman's skirts—what with

Your Question And Its Answer

J.A. Panneck, D.C.
Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: In what year was Chiropractic discovered and by whom? Please answer and explain more about it. Mrs. J. H. R.

ANSWER: The man who made the discovery was D. D. Palmer, in the year 1895. Previous to that time the backbone of the living human was practically an undiscovered continent. Anatomies said something about bones acting as a frame; physiologists said something about muscles working like frogs' muscles; neurologists knew something about the origin and insertion of nerves there; but no book existed that told us what place in the great scheme of man did man's backbone play.

At one time in a neighboring state there was held a joint Senate and House Health Committee hearing on a Chiropractic bill. The faculty of the Medical Department of the University of that state was present. A Chiropractor questioned the existence of a sympathetic nervous system. One of the physicians said, "Do you mean to say that what we know about anatomy is not so?" And the Chiropractor replied, "No, Doctor, all that you know about anatomy is so, but you do not know all that is so about anatomy."

Chiropractic gradually grew. It is now premised upon certain principles: the fixed physics fact that matter cannot move without force or energy.

Human matter is in motion as human energy gets to the human matter. Human matter moves in exact ratio as human energy is delivered to the human matter.

More mind in more matter equals more motion. The quantity flow of mental energy, between brain and body, predominates, the quality of function at the periphery.

The human brain is a human dynamo, it generates that force, the nerves convey that energy; if the body receives mental function, then that body will act normally and be healthy in all parts.

The Chiropractic idea, briefly stated, is this: The cause of disease is in the person afflicted. Adjustments correct conditions that produce it. The function of every organ in the body is controlled by the brain, through mental impulses, which are transmitted over nerves. Therefore, the spine is the keynote to health.

SMALL PRODUCERS OF OIL FACING LACK OF MARKET

Refusal of Company to Make Purchases Hits Kansas and Oklahoma

Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press
Kansas City, Mo. — (CFA) — The southwest is much exercised over two features of the business situation as it affects something else than wheat. One is the oil industry, which spreads over southern Kansas and much of Oklahoma.

Thousands of wells—12,000 is the usual estimate—have been drilled to reach small production. Some of these give only a barrel or two barrels a day. But they are operated by electric power and require only small supervision. This income goes to land owners and operators, but affects most the owners of the lands, who have been getting a steady though small revenue.

The announcement of the Prairie Oil & Gas company that it would cease buying crude oil after Jan. 1 eliminates the market to which these wells contributed. To shut them down would allow the holes to fill with water and ruin them. Demands that purchases go on have been sent to Washington in large volume. Assurances from Senator Capper this week said that some method would be found to continue buying.

The livestock interests are concerned in the distribution of drought relief funds. While there are localities where the farmers have plenty of roughage and corn, other sections are short of both.

See Shortage

There may be plenty to get through part of the winter, but the possibility of shortage in early spring is imminent. So protests have been sent regarding the original distribution, which left out Kansas and

The livestock industry would have a very bright immediate future with employment conditions in the east averaging the same as a year ago. But gradually the lessened demand for meats has worked into western markets. Year-end estimates are that 25 per cent less cattle, 25 per cent less lambs and 10 per cent less hogs are being fed. Still, cattle are $1 to $3 per hundredweight less than a year ago, hogs $1 lower and lambs

$4.50 lower. These figures represent the actual profit to the feeder in many instances. Stock held over after the drought usually is profitable, but this year is not yet remunerative.

Even a moderate increase in employment will have a helpful effect all through the corn belt, furnishing a better market for meats and also helping out rural banks which have financed the feeders and count on liquidation by later winter or early spring.

Naturally this affects trade, especially in rural areas, where merchants continue to reflect the lagging sentiment of their customers.

J. W. CORNELIUS IS HONORED FOR WORK BY POPE

Receives Apostolic Blessing for Activities in Building Oneida Church

Oneida — Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cornelius and family were honored on Christmas eve when they received the apostolic blessing after the midnight mass.

Their pastor, the Rev. A. A. Vissers brought to the attention of the Holy See, that James Cornelius is the last of the pioneers of the immaculate Conception parish of Oneida. When the first Catholic church was built on the reservation in 1891, there were only about fourteen men to do the work, handling logs and having them sawed at Abram Danforth's sawmill. They first asked for a small piece of land to be allotted them for church purposes as had been done for the Episcopal and Methodist churches but this was refused. Then Eli Skindmore donated five acres of land for the church and cemetery.

The next step was to get permission from the government to build the church. This was granted and revoked two times before the Rev. P. Q. Lochman of Kaukauna took his troubles to Archbishop Ireland at Milwaukee who told him to go ahead and build the church. When Father Lochman returned home a telegram awaiting him from the secretary of interior informed him that permission was granted him to build.

But while building the church the chief of police ordered them to stop work. This they did until Father Lochman told them to pay no attention to the orders. The next day when they again resumed work the police again drove them off.

The third day after holding a council they returned with a gun of some sort. After dinner John Archquette, the chief of police and his force, again returned and were going to arrest every man on the job. When the group paid no attention to them they tried to divide their forces by taking the ladder away leaving some men on the roof where they were working. But James Cornelius stood with a revolver in one hand and a hatchet in the other while the men came down from the roof. They went in the brush where they had their guns hid and then marched out armed and ordered the police away. When the police found the Indians would fight they left them alone. The little church was finished and dedicated on Oct. 25 1891. During this year there were 471 converts received. James W. Cornelius is the last of the men who was willing to shed his blood for the church. In view of this fact the pope sent him and his family his apostolic blessing. The document is a work of art in itself. The printing has been done with a pen and the capital letters are inlaid with gold. There is a large photograph of the pope on the document.

Father Vissers had the document framed before presenting it to the family at the altar of the immaculate Conception church before the congregation.

WILD BEAUTY

by MATEEL HOWE FARNHAM

Chapter 13
LOVE WITH RESERVATIONS

THERE are things that can't bear being talked about," said Fanny quietly that first evening when she and David were alone. About her hovered the unmistakable aura of one cherishing secret grievances—unmistakable to a husband.

"Very well—if you feel that way," said David laughingly. A thousand times David had pictured this first hour alone—he, in the big chair, smoking, looking out of the window, a little stern, a little aloof. And Fanny fidgeting about the room, making excuses to do this or that to bring her nearer to him; until finally, with a little rush, she would come and kneel beside him, laying her bright head on his knee.

"Darling... do you love me?... no matter what I've done? I'll die if you stop loving me."

But there she stood, after a month of separation, brushing her hair as unconcernedly as if she had never been away, and seemingly entirely of any need to be forgiven. Almost involuntarily David found himself saying apologetically, "Of course you understood that I had no choice but to go back to the bank. Every cent that I borrowed to move went to pay the various bills."

"Yes," said Fanny noncommittally.

"Coming back to live with Mother was part of the bargain," David went on. "Uncle was very insistent, and I was hardly in a position to dictate."

It was on the tip of Fanny's tongue to cry out, "But you might in decency have consulted me first!" You might at least have written me and spared me the humiliation of hearing the news from your mother!" She bit the words back. After many weeks' struggle she had herself and her emotions in hand; but she dared not risk a quarrel. She said nothing, went on brushing her hair.

"I don't like the new arrangement any better than you do," continued David, a hint of irritation in his voice, "but I think you may trust me to see that you are not imposed upon. Mother's been awfully decent. You're to come and go and entertain exactly as if you were in your home and there's to be an extra maid who will take care of Sheila afterwards, and we pay only $125 a month. At least you can have some new clothes and won't have to do a servant's work any longer—you can be a lady, as Mother says."

"Your mother's idea and mine differ as to what constitutes a lady," said Fanny largely. "Really, David, you mustn't be so nineteenth-century minded."

The voice was Fanny's but the words, the tone the bearing so unfamiliar that David glanced at her quickly to see if she were joking. Her face was grave, every nerve of her body, ached to have Fanny in his arms—strained so tightly to his heart that the black spectres that stalked between them should be exorcised. His conscience forbade. Moreover, for four years David had been worshipped rather than worshipped. After a quarrel, it was always Fanny who made the first advance. But now when she was so clearly in the wrong, she actually mounted herself upon a high horse.

"I confess that under the circumstances I am a little surprised at your attitude," snapped David.

"What attitude?"

"Your long-suffering attitude—of one much abused and put upon. Just as a matter of curiosity I'd like to know just what under Heaven you did expect me to do?"

"I expected you to act exactly as you did," said Fanny and smiled. (Did her lips tremble? No, she was stifling a yawn.)

Fanny came and stood by David's side.

"I think you imagined the attitude," she said gently. "I haven't liked coming back here to live, but no one knows better than I that I brought it on myself, and I don't mean to make you unhappy about it. What's done is done, and what is, has to be made the best of; but threatening over the whole thing is a little more than I can bear."

She smiled down at David, parted his shoulder reassuringly and departed. Her sweet reasonableness was like a breath of wind, setting alight David's smouldering rage. He flung himself out of the room, out of the house, and walked for hours until sheer exhaustion put the fire out.

But it is impossible for two young lovers to keep long estranged. David came into their room one evening to find Fanny sobbing. "Sweetheart," cried David excitedly, and gathered her in his arms. Fanny at last had capitulated, was ready now to ask his forgiveness. "What is it?" he asked tenderly, "dear, darling, dearest?"

"I'm so lonely," sobbed Fanny. "I haven't... haven't... heard from... my father... in over a year. I'm afraid he's been killed. And he's all the family I ever had. I feel so terribly, terribly alone."

A little chilled, considerably disappointed, David loosened his hold and immediately tightened it. Right or wrong, justice or injustice, dignity or no dignity, he could not let Fanny go, now that she was once more in his arms.

"You have me—Sheila and me; don't we count a little?" he asked jealously.

"A speck," said Fanny and snuggled against his shoulder.

"Happy?" asked David. Fanny made a soft little murmur. David knew well enough that the spectres had been but temporarily worsted. He even divined dimly that they had come to a dangerous turning point. But now nothing mattered but that Fanny loved him.

And yet all the while David was conscious that Fanny had changed. He missed something in her—something terribly important. It was some time before David would admit that it was the worship he missed in Fanny's eyes. She no longer loved him as a child loves. She loved now as other wives love—with reservations.

Irritated, baffled, hurt and strongly conscious of his own rectitude, David too often recalled that Fanny had never expressed a proper remorse, nor asked to be forgiven. Indeed in the days of estrangement after her return, it was he who had given in—not Fanny, the culprit. Still more galling to the pride, harder perhaps, to forgive, when David to signify his just anger or displeasure, withdrew himself into the high places of the spirit Fanny was now able to endure it with disconcerting equanimity. Concerned she was even sorrowful, but devastated she was not.

"Poor darling," she would say, leaning her cheek for a moment against David's unrelenting cheek, "does it want to be alone?" and take herself away without waiting for a reply.

Said Fanny once to Leona, the cook. "About the only times Mother Frost really laughs is when David tells a joke on me. But when I tell a joke on David she might be Queen Mary listening to a blatant upstart ridiculing the Prince of Wales."

"She was always like that," said Leona. "Me and Amelia used to have our laugh on Davey, but their mamma never would join in. She said much of a laughter now." With her eyes turned on the sun-drenched back yard Leona added mournfully, "It don't seem like the sun's shore since Amelia went away."

The quick tears sprang to Fanny's eyes. Even before she left the little cottage she had missed David's sister acutely—and now doubly, Amelia had ever been not only her staunch champion and defender, but confidante and safety-valve.

Little slights, trifling hurts, doubts, perplexities, Fanny had early learned to carry to Amelia rather than David, since David was certain to take them too much to heart. Oh, if Amelia were only here now with her ready laughter, and reader sympathy, her blunt common sense, her dominant sense of justice! (Copyright, 1930, by Mateel Howe Farnham)

Fanny fights on in her loneliness until a storm breaks within her. See the next chapter.

Wisconsin Cagers Battle Marquette Quintet At Milwaukee

BILL CHANDLER, EX-U. W. STAR, NOW M. U. COACH

Badgers Have Had Great Success in Season's First Three Games

MADISON — Members of the University of Wisconsin basketball squad resumed practice Saturday after a four-day layoff and went through a long workout by Coach Walter E. Meanwell.

The two hour drill was preceded by an hour of picture taking in which half a dozen camera men gathered the annual crop of photographs of members of the squad.

In the practice Coach Meanwell made numerous shifts but it seems reasonably clear that his starting line-up against Marquette university's clever five next Tuesday night will be Marvin Steen and Russ Turnowski, forwards; Doug Nelson, center; Ted Chmielewski and Johnny Paul, guards.

Coach Meanwell believes that Marquette will furnish his men the best test they have had this season, chiefly because the Hilltoppers have been playing better ball each game and because Bill Chandler, Marquette coach and himself an old Meanwell star, knows Wisconsin's style better than any mentor who has yet sent his men against the Badgers this season.

Criticize Opposition
Basketball fans of Madison have found fault with the character of the opposition Wisconsin has met in preliminary games but this criticism has not been serious because it is realized here that Wisconsin was in no way to blame for that that neither Pennsylvania nor Missouri was able to offer Wisconsin any real opposition.

When these games were scheduled, there was every reason to expect that both teams would extend the Badgers to the limit. Pennsylvania had finished second in the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball League last season and had a letter man available from the team. Missouri had won the championship of the Missouri Valley Big Six, had three of its stars back and seemed likely to furnish just the kind of opposition desired.

Wisconsin won handsily from Penn. by a score of 25-12 and romped away from Missouri, 27-9. In justification of the top-heavy score against Missouri it may be pointed out that the Tigers went out and tried for scores until the final gun, whereas Penn. once Wisconsin has gained a commanding lead, elected to play a defensive game and hold down the score.

Reserves Show Well
A pleasing feature of these games, from a Badger standpoint, was the excellent work of the reserves—namely Bobby Cooper and Harry Griswold. If Bobby keeps up his good work in defense, he seems destined to step into the shoes of Ted Chmielewski, veteran guard when Chmielewski graduates in January. Cooper is a sharpshooter who excels in tosses from outside the free-throw circle and Meanwell can use such a player, providing he can live up to the exacting Meanwell standard on defense. Griswold is a speed merchant on the type of Maury Farber, one of the best players of the year's team. He will flash through many a defense this season for lightning shots close under the hoop.

Milwaukeeans who attend the Marquette-Wisconsin game at the auditorium will see as fine an exhibition of defensive basketball as any Wisconsin team has offered in nearly a decade. This year's Badgers have mastered the Meanwell style of defense exceptionally well and they carry the opposition constantly with their shifting, two-line tactics and their close guarding.

Wisconsin will have one more practice—Monday—before leaving for the Marquette battle. Their next game thereafter will be against Illinois at Urbana, Jan. 5. The Illinois will also be their opponents in the next game at the Wisconsin field house, Jan. 15.

MARQUETTE HOCKEY SEXTET BEATEN, 2-1

Hibbing, Minn. — (AP) — Battling nearly even with the fast Hibbing team until after six and one half minutes of the third period, Marquette university's pucksters last night were defeated by the local sextet, 2 to 1.

The collegians played a speedy game and scored first at the six minute stage of the opening period. They kept the lead until near the three-quarter mark of the second period when Hibbing tied the score. The winning score came in the last of the third.

Three Hibbing boys, Moore, Elness and Furlong, were in the starting lineup for Marquette.

NEW LIGHT HEAVY SHOWS AT COLISEUM

Chicago — (AP) — Baxter Calme, promising young light heavyweight, from Wichita, Kan., steps into major competition in the Coliseum tomorrow, meeting Jerry De Barbiere, Belgian puncher, in an eight round bout.

Two of the best of the younger crop of bantamweights, Emil Tobias of New York and George Nats, South Bend, Ind., collide in another eight rounder.

HELENE MADISON HURT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Seattle, Wash. — (AP) — Miss Helene Madison, Seattle swimming star, was shaken severely in a motor car crash yesterday. The car in which she was riding collided with a truck and lodged against a telephone pole.

Miss Madison suffered minor bruises and scratches, but went through her customary swimming practice.

VIKES, MARQUETTE IN NIGHT GRID GAME

Lawrence college football team will battle Marquette eleven at Milwaukee, the night of Oct. 2, according to the Marquette grid schedule which was released a few days ago. It will be the first game of the season for both teams and the first night game a Lawrence squad has ever competed in.

The complete Lawrence schedule for the fall grid season will not be announced for several weeks unless it is given out with a couple of open dates. The schedule once was completed with two games with Ripon and Carroll. Ripon, however, said "no" to the plan so the Vikes still are waiting for someone to play on at least one date.

BATTING HONORS IN N. L. COPPED BY HACK WILSON

Giants Best Club on Road; Cardinals Set Splendid Home Record

NEW YORK — (AP) — Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs, leading slugger of the National league, gets attention in the official percentages and other miscellaneous records of the National league year, issued today.

Wilson, going to bat 555 times, hit for 423 bases and compiled a slugging average of .723. His nearest rivals were Chuck Klein of Philadelphia and Babe Herman of Brooklyn, who had slugging marks of .697 and .678 respectively. Wilson batted in 140 runs to eclipse the former league record of 139 he set the year before. He drew 105 bases on balls and struck out 84 times to top the league in both respects.

Another league record when 17 players had 100 or more runs batted in. The old mark was 16. Wilson accomplished the feat for the fifth successive year while Sunny Jim Bottomley of St. Louis, after doing it for six years straight, fell three short of the 100 mark.

In the club marks, Chicago made the best slugging percentage, .431, and had the most bases on balls, 538, and the most strikeouts, 635. St. Louis batted in 942 runs to establish another new league record. The former mark of 933 was made by the Cubs the year before.

The New York Giants proved themselves the best road club in the league by winning 41 games and losing 36 away from home but three teams made better records when performing on their home fields. The St. Louis Cardinals led in this respect by winning 33 contests and losing only 24 at Sportsman's park.

Brooklyn participated in the greatest number of shutouts games during the year, 22, and won 13 of them to top that list as well. Cincinnati was held scoreless ten times.

'BAMA SEEKS 24TH BASKETBALL WIN

Crimson Is Southern Conference Champ; Won 20 Straight in '29

Chicago — (AP) — University of Alabama cagers, winners of 23 consecutive basketball games, hope to annex their twenty-fourth victory in meeting the Northwestern University five at Evanston Wednesday night.

The Crimson cagers hold the Southern conference championship. Last year they won 20 games in a row. To date this year they have won three straight games.

The visitors from the south, however, may run into a snarl as Northwestern expects to have a complete crew of regulars in action, with Bob Lockhart and Frank Marshall, two ailing guards, back in the line-up, the Wildcats may regain form which carried them to victories over Bradley, Notre Dame and Carleton.

Tomorrow night Purdue will invade the east for a battle with Pittsburgh. The Boilermakers will enrage Temple at Philadelphia Thursday night. Purdue makes its eastern debut as a true representative of midwest basketball. In the last five years Purdue teams have won or shared in three Big Ten titles and have finished runner-up two years.

Tomorrow night also will find Brigham Young, University of Salt Lake city meeting the University of Chicago in Chicago and Wisconsin battling Marquette in Milwaukee. Indiana will take trip east for a battle with Pennsylvania Wednesday night, with Ohio Wesleyan furnishing the opposition for Michigan at Ann Arbor.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

BEN TICKNOR, Harvard's all-American center, has been troubled for two years by "athlete's heart." The only result he noticed was that after football games he felt distressed after the Yale game this year, Ticknor wandered around the locker rooms as if in a daze, refusing to remove his uniform. A heavy-setter who is called "another Dempsey" has two strikes on him before he ever enters the ring. Max Baer doesn't mind a little thing like two strikes... he sees $10,000,000 ahead for him and talks it up quite briskly. Two years ago Max was herding cattle. Then he went to work in an engine factory to toughen up. During the lunch hours, Max used to trade socks on the chin with the other employees free of charge. He won his first professional fight, for which he got $25.

Perry Sees Breakup Of Big 10 Loop

BY LAWRENCE PERRY Copyright 1930

NEW YORK — (CFA) — From out of the Midwest and in the east also have come persistent rumors concerning a new alignment in the Western conference, after present schedules have been fulfilled. In effect these rumors relate to a withdrawal from the Big Ten of four or five of the present members and the organization of a "big four" or a "big five," as the case may be.

The great success which attended the withdrawal of six members from the Missouri Valley conference and the organization of the "big six" is said to have been very influential in shaping the thoughts of certain universities affiliated with the Western conference who are in a neighboring position.

You cannot attach these reports to anyone in authority. No one will confirm them; but just the same the subject is in the air and consequently is presented by the writer for what they are worth.

Talk is that dissatisfaction exists over the manner in which football material is obtained by a few members of the conference, and there are other hidden political currents which are said to be irritating.

Again, the idea of inter-sectional games has taken a very strong hold in the middle west and in the case of a conference so large as that in the middle west, are not abundant.

Geographically, as the conference now stands, there is, some have always felt, too much territory to be covered. Institutions at Ann Arbor and Columbia and Urbana are as far removed from Madison and Minneapolis as New York is from Chicago and very often in the past Chicago has heard the opinion expressed that a division of the conference along geographical lines might be a good move.

LAWRENCE CAGERS RESUME PRACTICE

Open Big Four and Midwest Season With Beloit College, Jan. 9

Lawrence college basketball team will resume practice sessions Tuesday, according to A. C. Denney, coach, and will drill twice daily until school opens along about Jan. 5.

The Vikings are opening the 1931 schedule here Jan. 9, when they meet Beloit college and entertain hopes of getting off to a good start in Big Four circles. Beloit is making a trip through this part of the state and will play Ripon the night before meeting Lawrence. The gold has a veteran aggregation although there is nothing to indicate how strong it will be when it meets Lawrence.

Lawrence has competed in two games so far this season, beating St. Norbert college five and a team composed of Vike alumni. In both games the Blue and White has shown very well, handling the ball nicely with several of the boys boasting a dead eye for the hoop. The Christmas holidays may have knocked some of that polish off the quint but that's one reason Coach Denney is setting them back to work early.

Elmer Strickland, pitching for Brooklyn Nationals back in the early eighties, was the first pitcher to deliver the spitball. Today, with a ban against the delivery in the major leagues, only three are left of a once bountiful crop.

Report Two Changes In Makeup Of 1931 Baseballs

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER NEA Service Sports Editor

WHEN the big league teams go south in February, they will take along a baseball that is just like the "lively ball" in use for the last 10 or more years except for two things—

The horseshoe cover on the 1931 baseball will be twice as heavy as the cover that has been in use for several years past, and the seams will be made of thread that is twice as thick as that which has been used in making baseballs the last few years.

The result is expected to be sharper curves, better handling of the ball by the pitchers and an extra cushion on the ball itself that will make it less like the bullets that have been breaking infielders' legs for the last decade.

Gives Better Grip
When the major league magnates met recently in New York to discuss the lively ball, several baseballs that were in use 18 years ago were exhibited to the owners. The heavy three-piece ball was used in the seams of those balls provided a raised ridge around the ball which afforded the pitcher an excellent grip. Besides giving the pitcher a better grip, by reason of the raised seams, provided greater resistance to the air in flight and made "break" curves easier.

Besides, the ball of 18 years ago, with a cover of horseshoe twice as thick as that used in the ball that was in play during the last world series, was less "bouncy" than the 1930 spheroid.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

FOOTBALL coaches are a funny lot. Some of them hold down jobs in schools where everyone is their boss, where they are criticized every time they lose and where they never know from one year to another whether they'll be back.

And on the other hand there are coaches who hold down jobs where no one ever says a word about success, where they can lose any number of games and as long as they do their work well they are retained.

Such a job was the one held down by Noel Workman at Iowa State until a few days ago when he handed in his resignation. He gave no reason for quitting and stated he would continue coaching.

Iowa State is another of the schools that asks for students and considers athletic victories secondary. That, it is admitted, was one reason why Workman's teams were not victorious this year and why there was only one victory in 1929. Yet Workman quit and people ask why.

We have only an opinion on the matter—that Workman is the kind of chap who likes to win, to bask in glory similar to that he had when a student at Ohio State. Defeats hurt him even if no one cares; in other words he is what is known as a "money player" in sport circles.

BLUE STREAKS WIN FIRST HOCKEY GAME

Beat Fond du Lac Legion Team, 2 and 1; 1,200 Fans Watch Battle

History repeated itself Sunday afternoon for the Appleton and Fond du Lac hockey teams and the Blue Streaks won 2 and 1 just as they did a year ago in the opening battle. The game was a Fox River Valley league fracas, the first of the season for the Streaks and was played at Fond du Lac.

Fond du Lac opened the scoring in the second period but held the lead only a few minutes when Joe Shields shoved the rubber across the goal for an Appleton score. Here too, history repeated for the game last year went the same way.

With about eight minutes of the third and last period gone, the Streaks scored the winning marker. Eddie Helms getting the score.

Individually the Streaks looked very good but the team play showed lack of practice. The boys handled the rubber poorly and clicked on only a few occasions. A few practice sessions will rid them of the bad play, however, in the opinion of John Roach, manager and coach.

Fond du Lac has picked up a lot of interest in hockey and about 1200 fans saw yesterday's game.

PORTUGUESE HEAVY AT GARDEN FRIDAY

New York — (AP) — Jose Santo, 263-pound Portuguese behemoth, battles Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, in Boston Thursday afternoon.

Madison Square Garden's Friday night show brings together Mateo Osa, Spanish heavyweight, and Pierre Charles of Belgium. The winner may be matched with Max Baer, California youngster who made a hit on his first appearance in New York recently.

A featherweight duel between Eddie Shea of Chicago and Andy Martin of Boston heads a card at St. Louis Friday.

Lea Lomski, veteran light heavyweight from Aberdeen, Wash., takes on Charley Belanger of Winnipeg in a ten rounder at Portland, Ore., Thursday.

Rowland had an engagement today with William L. Veck, president of the Chicago Cubs, owners of the Reading team, to settle final details. Veck said he understood Rowland intends to manage as well as operate the club.

Rowland piloted Nashville in the Southern Association the last two years.

ROSE BOWL TEAMS END DRILLS TODAY FOR JAN. 1 GAME

Only 60,000 Fans Have Purchased Tickets for Stadium's 85,000 Seats

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN Associated Press Sports Writer PASADENA, Cal. — (AP) — Two of the country's leading football teams—Washington State and Alabama—swept into the home stretch of a fast winning grid season today and settled down to final preparation for the sixteenth annual tournament of roses game here New Year's day.

Many roads led to the battlesite, the Rose bowl in its picturesque arroyo seco setting. The Crimson tide will seep into top form by the easy stages of light workouts. The cougars from the Northwest face hard sessions today and tomorrow, with the crowning drill Wednesday expected to be light.

Coach Orin "Babe" Hollingsbery is satisfied with physical and mental status of his Washington State army. Coach Wallace Wade is convinced his Alabama have learned their football well, but isn't so sure they will be in top form.

Both mentors rounded the turn in final preparations Saturday with tough sessions in the morning, and then allowed them a first hand study of gridiron geometry as displayed by the all-Notre Dame and west south teams in their charity tussle in Los Angeles.

Coach Hollingsbery says he is not disturbed over the potentialities of Alabama's players.

What betting has taken place favors Alabama. Coach Wade says this is without merit, he is convinced that should the weather turn exceedingly warm—and there are indications it will—the result will work ill effects on either or both teams.

Chances are that the contest will not attract a maximum crowd of 85,000. The advance sale, however, had reached almost 60,000 Saturday.

Sports Question Box

Question—Which was the greatest southern basketball team in 1930?

Question—A batted ball shoots up about 25 feet. It is caught by the catcher in his box. What is it?

Answer—It is a foul.

Answer—Billy Jacobs, College of the City of Baltimore.

FOX RIVER PAPER LOSES TO CIGARS

Only One Game Played Saturday Night in Industrial Cage League

Only one league game was played in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial cage Saturday evening. The United Cigar store five beating the Fox River Paper company team, 25 and 19.

A second game, a non-league fracas was staged for fans who spent the evening at the gym and saw Co. D. squad lose to an array of cage talent by a score of 34 and 26.

The Cigars had things their own way all evening with the Fox River quint. They stopped R. Tornow, the Papermakers' scoring ace, with a lone basket in the first half and his mates could gather only four other points. The first half ended 16 and 6 for the Cigars. In the second half Tornow was not watched so closely and he garnered three field goals. However, the lead chalked up by the Cigars in the first period was too great for the Fox River gang to overcome.

HERE'S ONE GRID GAME THAT FLOPPED

New York — (AP) — Less than 2,000 spectators turned out to watch a pitted football team from Southern colleges defeat a similar northern aggregation at Ebbets Field yesterday, 7-0. The gate was less than expenses.

The gridiron was covered with snow and ice. In the third period Georgia quarterback, passed on his 20-yard line to Holland, Tulane, for a gain of 37 yards; slipped off tackle 13 yards; and passed to Jim Magner, North Carolina back, who ran the rest of the way to a touchdown. Davidson kicked the point.

POINT AFTER TOUCHDOWN MAY NOT BE BANNED

Opening Blasts at Meeting of Coaches, Officials Favors Rule

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sport Writer NEW YORK — (AP) — The opening verbal blast of the annual meeting of intercollegiate athletic officials has developed support for football's much abused point after touchdown.

A definite move toward abolition of the extra point had been widely forecast but the first official action of the meetings favored retention of this scoring feature of the game.

Delegates to the annual sessions of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials last night approved the extra point out suggested that the penalties for fouls occurring while the try for point is made now are too drastic.

They referred specifically to the present rule under which extra points are awarded, or disallowed, because of offside. They suggested imposition of distance penalties for offside.

The association asked for a uniform interpretation of the fumble rule so that on all kicks as well as fumbles "the ball, if recovered before it strikes the ground, may be advanced by the one recovering."

Yale Scored on Play
It was just such a play that Barres, Yale end, ran to a touchdown against Georgia last season, and thereby a widespread discussion as to the legality of the play under the fumble rule which says that a fumble of a kicked ball is dead at the point of recovery. Barres grabbed a kicked ball after it bounded out of the arms of a Georgia player. The ball did not touch the ground before Barres caught it.

Members of the eastern association for the selection of football officials heard Walter Oleson of Lehigh declare that the time was "about ripe" for the formation of a national organization to handle football officiating.

The American Football Coaches association holds its annual meeting today.

Tomorrow the first sessions of the National Collegiate Athletic Association will be held. This association is concerned largely with the administrative end of all intercollegiate athletics but football generally monopolizes most of the interest at its December gathering. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's suggestions to curb "over-emphasis" in the game probably will furnish plenty of fuel for debate. The sessions will continue into Wednesday. E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, is to make his report. The chances are he will recommend that no changes in the code be made.

MARQUETTE CLASHES WITH U. W. TOMORROW

Milwaukee — (AP) — Hoping to upset the dope, Marquette University leather tossers rested today prior to their basketball game tomorrow night at the Milwaukee Auditorium with the University of Wisconsin.

VETERAN FUEL COMPANY SOLD AT KAUKAUNA Brenner and Grebe Dispose of Property to John Benotch

Kaukauna — The Brenner and Grebe Fuel and Supply company has been sold to John Benotch of this city and the management will change hands on Thursday, Jan. 1. The business was started in the summer of 1902 by K. F. G. Brenner. It was incorporated in 1911 with K. F. G. Brenner as president, Charles Brenner as vice president and Edward Grebe as secretary and treasurer. At that time K. F. G. Brenner retired from active service. The company is located on Depot street near the Chicago and Northwest railroad tracks. A stove factory was originally located at that site and later was replaced by a blacksmith shop. This was replaced by the Fuel and Supply company. The manufacture of bricks was started in 1924 when a new modern brick factory was built there.

Social Items

Kaukauna — The marriage of Miss Agatha May Gossens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Gossens, and Kermit John Clark of Oshkosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Clark of Wild Rose, took place at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Holy Cross church parsonage. The Rt. Rev. P. J. Lochman performed the ceremony. Angela Pay Gossens, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Francis Bloomer of Appleton was the best man. The wedding dinner was served at the Hotel Kaukauna with the immediate families present. After a short wedding trip the couple will reside at Oshkosh, where Mr. Clark is a member of the Oshkosh high school faculty.

A public card party will be held by the ladies of the Holy Cross church on Wednesday evening, Jan. 7, in the church basement. Mrs. E. G. Driesen is chairman of the committee in charge.

AWAIT FINAL REPORT ON CHRISTMAS SEALS

Kaukauna — There are still some returns due from the Christmas seal sale conducted here between Thanksgiving and Christmas, according to Mrs. Olin G. Dwyer, chairman of the committee in charge. She urges that these returns be sent in as soon as possible so that a complete report can be sent to the state headquarters of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. The city may win a two day health clinic.

SKATING POPULAR

Kaukauna — The municipal ice skating rink at the Park and Nicolet school grounds are proving popular with local skaters and also skaters from nearby cities. Both rinks were crowded in the afternoons and evenings over the weekend.

AIR SAFETY EXHIBIT

Paris — More than 400 nations are expected to meet here during the International Air Safety Conference to be held from December 10 to 23. Planes and bulky apparatus will be shown at the airport at Orly, just outside the city, and small instruments will be exhibited in the conference room here. It is expected that much valuable information regarding safer aviation practices will come out of this convention.

PLANE PROSPECTORS

Kimberly — Planes are being extensively used in Africa to prospect for copper. It has been noted that copper has prevented growth of vegetation over the reefs, and so airplanes are sent over the region, making maps and photographs wherever spots appear that are barren of trees. Expeditions are then sent out to make mineralogical examinations.

Operation for 13 months of Australian national airways gave a net profit of $12,096.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Derus. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Derus.

INJURY PUTS LANDREMAN OUT OF CAGE SQUAD

Kaukauna — Word has been received here that Richard "String" Landreman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Landreman, who is attending the St. Mary college in California, has dislocated his shoulder while playing basketball. He will not be able to play for the greater part of the season. Injuries early in the fall all so prevented the youth from playing with the college football team.

SCOUTS REGISTER FOR NEW CHARTER

Scoutmaster Lane Needs Assistant to Help Carry on His Work

Kaukauna — Re-registration of Kaukauna boy scouts for Troop 20 is now taking place, according to the Rev. Herbert J. Lane, scoutmaster. Up to the present time about 25 scouts have registered. New scouts may also register at this time. The Kaukauna troop is composed of three patrols headed by Scouts Robert Balgie, Stanley Dix and Robert Woelz. The scout charter for Kaukauna expires on Wednesday, Dec. 31. After the first of the year a new charter will be applied for. The local troop is a member of the Fox River Valley council which has its headquarters at Appleton under M. G. Clark, valley scoutmaster. Meetings are held by the local troop at 7 o'clock, each Monday evening in the Park school. The troop is sponsored by the Kaukauna Rotary club. The scouts have a camp in the tourist park and in the summer it is used for patrol meetings and overnight hikes. On account of his duties as pastor of the Oakway Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. Mr. Lane needs an assistant scout master. He said anyone interested in the work should arrange to see him.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

If December 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 1:45 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 3:30 to 5 p. m.

December 30th promises to be full of contradictions. What is regarded as important will prove to be insignificant, and what is considered a trifle will have serious consequences. Travel is indicated, as well as some financial worry, which, however, will adjust itself, if dealt with frankly and promptly. Children born on this December 30th will be phlegmatic, and, apparently, indifferent. They will never reveal spontaneity, nor display enthusiasm. Quick, at their studies, and possessing retentive memories, their brains will be store houses of information, of which they will make good use in after years.

If born on December 30th, you are gifted with a striking and charming personality. This, if used in the right manner, can become your chief asset. You are, however, prone to depend upon it in order to shirk doing those things which you ought to do. An attractive smile and a pleasing mannerism are poor substitutes for work. The mere fact that others are willing to help you, should not make you dependent on them, and render you indolent. You have it within you to make good. You will never do so, however, so long as you rely solely on your personal magnetism.

You are rather superficial in your knowledge; you never take the trouble to go to the bottom of things. It is too much bother, more especially as you have discovered that superficialism is, in most cases, as advantageous as fundamentalism. As you are a ready talker—humorous and witty. In all social gatherings, you are considered a prime package. You have a large number of acquaintances—but very few real friends—True friendships demand giving as well as taking. The signs denote that a fair measure of success in life awaits you. They also portend that a far greater prosperity would be yours if you would work more and play less.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN

- 1—Stephen H. Long—engineer—for whom Long's Peak was named.
  - 2—William R. Alger—Congressional clergyman.
  - 3—Frank Carlos Griffith—theatrical manager.

STOCK SHIPPING GROUPS HURT BY PRIVATE TRUCKING

Practice Creates Havoc With Associations, Says Farm Writer

BY W. F. WINSEY

Trucks combing the highways in successful live stock cooperative shipping associations of Outagamie county are raising havoc with the business of the associations and threatening farmers future profits derived in the past from marketing their own live stock cooperatively. Regardless of the fact that farmers' livestock shipping associations have reduced the cost of handling livestock 25 per cent and that farmers are getting this percentage in the way of profits, a large number of farmers who have accepted a clerk or some slight premium from truck drivers as a bait are standing on the sidelines of the livestock marketing industry in this vicinity and arguing for the shipment of livestock by truck and the breaking up of farmers' cooperative marketing institutions.

While refusing to trust his cooperative with the weighing, grading, marketing of his livestock and paying him the price at the close of the transaction, he does not hesitate to permit the truck driver to load his livestock without weighing, testing and grading, take it to some unknown commission house, sell it, and return in due time with the delivery weight, the grading and pay. Farmers who practice this kind of marketing say that they like it because there is no shrinkage and a truck passing along the highway can pick up a load very quickly stopping only long enough to load at each farm yard. They are of the firm opinion that someone else pays the cost of trucking.

Hits Business Volume

Due to this live stock trucking business, Dale Cooperative Trucking association for years one of the most prosperous institutions of the kind in the county has not shipped a carload of livestock in several weeks, and the Appleton association has not shipped a car since last spring. The Greenville association, formerly shipping two carloads each week, is now shipping one car each two weeks. The Kaukauna association, with 300 paid up members appears to be holding its own against the invasion of trucks, having shipped 54 carloads the past year. The Center Valley association with about 300 members is still quite prosperous.

Like many other diseases that afflict rural communities there is no medicine that will cure the shipping of livestock by trucks and breaking up farmers' marketing cooperatives in that way. The only known preventive is to put each farmer under a binding contract as the chief condition of membership and if trucks are to be used instead of freight cars to have them controlled by the shipping association.

The control of the truck will probably be considered at each of the annual meetings of the cooperative livestock shipping associations in Outagamie county to be held during January.

DAIRY COMMITTEE TO MEET NEXT WEEK

A meeting of the committee, elected by local dairymen at their meeting in the court house Wednesday night, Dec. 17, was called for Saturday, Jan. 3, at 1:30 in the afternoon in the court house at Appleton. It will not be a mass meeting.

FARM WOMEN NOW CANNING CHICKENS

Boarder Birds Should Not Be Kept in Flocks, They Point Out

BY W. F. WINSEY

As soon as a surplus chicken shows no inclination to earn its board and is full grown and in good condition, a number of the rural women of Outagamie preserve it in a tin can. If there is enough of such chickens in a flock, the women who own the flock and does the canning can serve a chicken dinner on twenty minutes notice in her dining room on each of one-half the days of the year.

In explaining the canning practice, recently, some of the women said that when a chicken is in the prime of condition it never improves with age and canning the bird prevents deterioration. The trouble of caring for a chicken in prime condition and the expense of feeding it is removed by the canning process. These women called attention to the fact that beside the care and the value of space in a coop, it costs at least 18 cents each month to feed a full grown chicken. At that rate the cost of keeping a loafing chicken through a winter of six months is $1.08. That amount of money is more than a hen can earn at the prices of eggs for three or four months in the summer.

The best place for all roosters in a flock and for hens that do not lay eggs such as some of the farm women of Outagamie county are using, or on the counters of meat markets. By riding a coop of the loafers that can not be induced to lay in winter by egg-producing fashions, more room is supplied for the working hens, better air, and cleaner litter.

SHIPPING ASSOCIATION TO MEET ON JAN. 2

The annual meeting of the Center Valley Cooperative Livestock and Shipping Association will be held at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, Jan. 2, at Center town hall. Election of officers will take place.

ITALY'S AIR GROWTH

The number of passengers carried increased from 4000 to more than 25,000. In addition to scheduled services, 7900 tax and tourist flights were made last year.

POTATO SEED HIGH QUALITY THIS YEAR

Elimination of Mosaic Disease One Means of Developing Grade

BY W. F. WINSEY

Exceptionally high quality marks Wisconsin's certified seed potato stock this year. This quality has been produced by growers, over a period of years, planting high quality disease-free seed and following the latest methods in handling the crop, according to J. M. Milward, of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, in charge of potato seed improvement.

The principal varieties so grown are Triumph, Rural New Yorker, Irish Cobbler, Green Mountain, and Russet Furrows, of which the Triumph variety is the most popular.

More than a quarter of a million bushels of certified seed potatoes were so produced during the 1930 season, of the Triumph, Rural New Yorker, Irish Cobbler, Green Mountain, and Russet Rural varieties. Of this amount, 150,000 bushels were of the Triumph variety, the most popular variety now grown in the state.

One of the methods used in Wisconsin which is directly responsible for the high quality of the Triumph and other varieties has been the elimination of the mosaic disease from the foundation seed stock through a process known as tuber indexing. This consists of testing each seed tuber for mosaic disease before it is planted. This is done during the winter months by planting in green houses, an eye from each of the tubers to be tested. Plants showing the disease, indicate that the tuber from which it was produced is diseased and should be discarded by the grower.

This system of marking potato seed was begun at the Wisconsin college of agriculture in 1924. Since that time over 300,000 bushes of superior quality seed stock have been developed by this method at these green houses for use as foundation stock for Wisconsin growers.

On account of the high producing quality of Wisconsin's seed stock, it is in demand throughout the potato producing sections of the United States. The Triumph variety is going to Texas, Louisiana, Alabama, and Florida while the Irish Cobbler variety is in demand by the growers of truck crops who are supplying an early market for the large cities of the middle west.

FEW FORECASTS BEING MADE ON YEAR'S OUTLOOK

Department Reluctant to Make Predictions About U. S. Business

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1930 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—(CPA)—Various government departments which usually make year-end predictions are silent this year. There is a natural hesitancy about forecasting the future in view of the fact that so many predictions early in 1930 have been more or less upset by unfavorable developments during the year.

As a rule government officials make lengthy statements for the newspapers and magazines reviewing the achievements of one year and pointing with confidence toward the next year. Instructions have been issued in some cases to eliminate the annual predictions altogether and in some instances officials have acted without any particular word from higher-ups. The consensus seems to be that silence at this time will be less embarrassing than any attempt to analyze either the cases or effects of the present depression.

One of the most interesting documents that has come out of a government department is a pamphlet which discusses the business depression incidentally but which primarily aims to guide the cotton farmer.

Offers Production Basis

The bureau of agricultural economics recommends that cotton production be based upon prospective market demand instead of upon prices of the preceding season. The bureau says that "although the general trend in cotton consumption in the United States is upward, years of depression temporarily reduce consumption," and adds:

"Since this decline in domestic consumption is to be attributed to the business depression, the probable duration of the depression is significant. In previous major depressions in the United States, business activity has declined for from 12 to 18 months from the peak, and then has begun a gradual recovery. The present depression has prevailed for 17 months. The influence of the drought on business recovery is still uncertain, and the course of depression abroad is not clear, but unless the present depression is to be more severe than previous major ones, the downward course should not continue much further.

"Recovery, when it comes, is likely to have the cumulative effects of a world-wide improvement." The bulletin then goes on to remark that there has been no material recovery in the foreign demand for cotton and that competition abroad is growing but that India is not equipped to expand in the face of low prices. The following advice is therefore given to the American grower:

Must Watch Russia

"If the American crop is to maintain its position in world trade, it must follow the cotton spindles and to do this it must compete in price as well as in quality. Until more definite information is available it may be well for American cotton growers to proceed on the assumption that Russian production will expand enough to satisfy Russia's consumption requirements. However, it is not expected that Russia will become an important factor in cotton export trade."

The bureau states further that the cotton crop of 1930 was probably produced at a lower cost per acre than either of the preceding two crops and adds with reference to the long time outlook for southern agriculture the following:

"It is unlikely that one would be justified in viewing the long time outlook for agriculture in the light of the natural pessimism prevailing this year. The general outlook is most probably one of improvement within the next year or two and it is possible that with business recovery, prices of agricultural products will improve more rapidly than prices of non-agricultural products."

INDIANS COLLECT $700 FOR TELLING ABOUT LOST PLANE

Roberval, Que.—(CP)—Though they demanded $20,000 at first, two Montagnard Indians were satisfied today with $700 for divulging the location of the bodies of W. H. Cannon and Leonce Lizotte, fliers lost in October, 1929, while carrying supplies to prospectors.

The Indians, Pierre Begin and Antoine Nantaganan, capitulated after hours of parley when a rescue party refused to go higher. They revealed that the bodies were lying in the wreckage of a plane five miles southwest of Lake Chibougamau, near the Boisvert river, in the northeast corner of Dollier-co. Cannon was found sitting at the controls, while Lizotte had fallen halfway out of the cabin. The plane than prices of non-agricultural products."

The foregoing is the nearest thing to a prediction that any government department has ventured but it is customary for the department of agriculture to make a commodity analysis so the comment about the business depression may be taken not as an attempt to speak for business as a whole but as an effort to show the relationship between the product of the cotton farmer and the world-wide business depression.

lies on the hillside of a hemlock forest and is screened from the air by heavy branches. The spot is 120 miles from Roberval.

FIVE TREMPPEALEAU-CO CREAMERIES MAY MERGE

Galesville—(CP)—On the report of a committee of nine farmers will depend whether five Trempealeau county creameries will merge into a single cooperative dairy plant for the manufacture of butter, cheese, casein and other dairy products. Farmers living in the northern section of the county, within a radius of ten miles of Osseo, site of the proposed plant, recently appointed the committee to consider the proposal. The committee will make a report in January.

STOCKS MAKE GAINS, THEN LOSE GROUND

Predict Recovery Will Be Slow and There Is No Hurry to Buy

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(AP)—The financial markets jerk toward the close of a trying year today without much enthusiasm over wiping the slate for a fresh start.

Stocks appeared to have been temporarily oversold, and recovered a little, but by early afternoon the list was again dragging close to the year's lowest levels. Predictions that business recovery in 1931 will be slow, if sure, are now commonly heard in Wall Street, and economic advisory services, while indicating investment bargains, say there need be no hurry about making purchases, all of which tended to keep markets depressed.

Tax selling continued to trickle into the stock market, and rails were again conspicuously heavy. Losses in the main were moderate, however, and most of the pivotal industrial maintained a good under-tone. U. S. Steel, American Can, and Case were among issues selling up a point or two, then losing their gains. Radio Common and Preferred "B" shares dropped to new low levels, and in the rails, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Atchafalaya, and Chicago and Northwestern lost about 2 points, the last named recording a new minimum. Union Pacific lost 4.

Important corporate news included the granting of an injunction to Cyrus Eaton and his associates halting the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem Steel, and the final drafting of a proposal to unify the New York Traction companies.

Both developments appeared to have been largely discounted by the stock market. Republic and Inland stocks, which are regarded as Eaton companies, were firm for a time, but Bethlehem and Youngstown were little changed. In the transaction, the Brooklyn Manhattan issues showed strength for a time. In the steel situation, Wall Street is primarily interested in whether the promoter interests will appeal.

Call money showed the customary year-end firmness, renewing at 2 1/2 per cent, and moving up to 3 1/2, the highest since May, as loans were called rather heavily. Last year at this time, however, the rate was 6 per cent, and two years ago, it touched 12 per cent. Other monetary accommodations were virtually stationary, loan calling was to meet year-end interest and dividend payments, and in part probably represented the "window dressing" by which cash balances are augmented in year-end statements.

In the commodity markets, copper was quoted at 10 1/2 cents a pound, up 1/2 for domestic shipment. Bar Silver, however, eased close to its recently recorded low for all time.

The Guaranty Trust Co. in its monthly survey, said that the reduction in the federal reserve discount rate "will probably have a favorable effect on business sentiment." It stated that "the general banking situation is not only strong from the standpoint of safety, but will be found favorable to business expansion as soon as conditions in other lines are such as to permit that development."

The U. S. Gypsum Co. has acquired the insulation board plant of the Chicago Mill and Lumber Co., located at Greenville, Miss., through an exchange of stock.

William C. McDuffie, president of Pacific Western Oil Co., who recently was elected president of the Richfield Oil Co. reiterated that there is no thought of a merger of the two companies at the present time. Mr. McDuffie still retains his office as president of Pacific Western.

DECLINES RECORDED ON CHICAGO EXCHANGE

Chicago—(AP)—Declines which characterized price movements on the Chicago Stock Exchange last week continued today, and extended to many issues that heretofore had been relatively unaffected. Taken as a whole, however, transactions were of comparatively small volume.

Corporation Securities made a new low at 14, off 1/4 from Saturday's final. Insult utility broke through Saturday's low price, and sold at 2 1/2. U. S. Gypsum's net income for 1930 will approximate last year's net.

Borg-Warner today was steady above 12, although other automotive shares were slightly lower. Gleaner Combine was up 1/4 to 6 1/2 on announcement of election of W. L. Allen of the American Rolling Mills to head the company.

MANY OUT OF TOWN BUYERS SEEK HOGS

Market Is Active With Receipts of 55,000, 25,000 Are Direct

Chicago—(AP)—Out-of-town buyers made the early hog market an active one. Offerings of 55,000 included 25,000 consigned straight to slaughtering plants. Lights were preferred and were the object of active demand during the early forenoon to the exclusion of other classes. Underweights averaging 140-170 lbs crossed the scales at $8.25-8.40, while some were held at Friday's and Saturday's top of $8.50. Slowness marked the trade on all weights above 210 lbs, prices offered being a dime lower.

Packers received no direct out of the city hogs today. Eleven reported 61,000, against only 51,000 a week ago. A good tone was current in the trade notwithstanding the increased receipts, but little stuff changed hands within the first hour. Steers of quality were salable at steady prices.

Two of the major packing establishments received an aggregate of 4,400 lambs on Thursday. This reduced the number of sheep and lambs available in the open market to about 25,000. While the supply was apparently more than ample for all trade requirements, sellers asked stronger prices.

PLAN MEETING OF 3 NATIONS ON BROADCASTS

Canada and Mexico Seek More Channels from United States

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Appealed to both by Canada and Mexico for "better deals" in broadcasting channels, radio officials of the United States are quietly drafting plans for a new conference of North American nations respecting the use of these channels. Mexico, in its effort to find a place under the radio sun, is squeezing stations in between the channels occupied by stations of the United and Canada, with interference the natural result. Canada for several years has been talking about its lack of broadcasting facilities and reopening of diplomatic negotiations seems inevitable.

Already there have been several unofficial conferences between radio commission and state department officials, who necessarily must handle the diplomatic negotiations. This country wants to stave off any conference as long as possible, it is understood, and it is not divulging any of its plans. In one way or another, however, the nations bordering on the north and the south have indicated their desires for a new conference looking toward a reallocation of the wavelengths.

Has 6 Channels
Under the existing "gentlemen's agreement," Canada has 6 exclusive broadcasting channels and shares a dozen others with the United States.
This country holds title to the rest, since Mexico and Cuba were not parties to the agreement, which does not have the binding effect of a treaty.

Only in the past few years has Mexico realized the advantages of broadcasting, and now it has 35 stations on the air, none of which are operating with power of 1,000 watts or more. These stations either operate on or are sandwiched in between channels used by American and Canadian stations. Only the higher powered stations, however, are causing interference with reception in this country.

Mexico is now forcing the showdown. During this year alone it has placed 16 new stations on the air—two of them in the "high-power" category. Station XEW at Mexico City is operating on the 780 kilocycle channel, a Canadian-shared

CLERK GETS BLANK FOR ANNUAL REPORT

Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, has received blanks from the state board of control on which he will make his annual crime report to the state. The report will include a list of criminal convictions in the county during the last year, offenses for which prison sentences were imposed, length of sentences, and places criminals were sent to.
The report will be completed in about a week.

wavelength, with 5,000 watts power, and reports to this country relate that its power is to be boosted to 50,000 watts—equal to the power of the largest American station. And just a month ago station XBD at Reynosa, in the Rio Grande valley across the border from Texas, took the air with 10,000 watts on the 961 kilocycle channels, just adjacent to the 550 kilocycle channel assigned to Canada.

Should the Mexico City station build to 50,000 watts it would be the last straw. Reception of Canadian and American stations assigned to the 780 kilocycle channel unquestionably would be raised. Canada has station CKY at Winnipeg on the channel with 5,000 watts, and the two would heterodyne each other.
To American listeners it would mean practical destruction of the services of half a dozen "regional" stations on the channel. These are WISJ, Madison, Wis.; KTM, Los Angeles,
WJAR, Norfolk; WMC Memphis; KELW, Burbank, Calif.; and WEAN
Providence, R. I.

It is evident that unless some understanding is reached by the three nations, more and more squeals and howls will greet listeners as new stations are licensed by the two border nations. To accommodate Mexico's contemplated super-power station, an exclusive wavelength must be accorded it. Wavelengths are scarce, and it will be only after protracted discussion that this nation will part with any of its channels. Cuba, too, must be taken into consideration in further negotiations respecting division of broadcasting channels for the continent.

NO PRIVILEGES FOR DRIVER TRAVELING ON ARTERIAL ROAD

Commission Points Out That Many Travelers Think
They Have Right of Way

That travelers on arteries for through traffic have no special privileges over traffic entering from intersecting highways was the statement made by the highway commission today.

"Many people traveling along arteries for through traffic believe that they have the right of way over traffic entering upon the arteries for through traffic," continues the statement, "but this is not the case. When a traveler on an intersecting highway has come to the full stop required by law, he has the same rights that he would have at any other highway intersection. The operator of a vehicle approaching an intersection is always required to yield to an operator who is in the intersection, and the law specifically provides that all operations, not only those who are about to enter the artery for through traffic but those on the artery as well, are subject to this requirement. Stops for arteries for through traffic need not necessarily be made exactly at the point where the stop sign is located. According to law, they may be made anywhere within thirty feet of the near side of the intersection.

"Operators on arteries for through traffic must bear in mind that they have no special privileges. The speed limits on such arteries are exactly the same as on other streets and highways, and any operator who operates at an unlawful speed or in any other unlawful manner immediately forfeits any right that may otherwise have been his.

Civic Groups Becoming Clothes Clearing Houses

With the air full of talk about the poor and the unemployed, and a "poor barrel" at every elbow, the old-time ragbag and the trunks in the attic have small chance of getting overstuffed this winter. Practically every church and civic organization in the city has become a clearing house for old clothes, and several large organizations have developed an organized business in the distribution of old clothes to the poor.

Though much of the Salvation Army's collection of cast-off clothing burned in the recent fire, another good-sized pile has accumulated and pieces are being distributed daily.

The Appleton Apostolate which votes a great deal of its time to the collection and distribution of old clothes, gave out 310 pieces of clothing last month, as well as 12 pieces of furniture and about 200 dishes.

Other organizations aiding in the clothing of the poor are the city poor department, the Appleton Woman's club, the Girl Scouts, the City Relief society, and several Catholic, Jewish and Lutheran Aid associations.

"Swapping" is a recognized practice among charity organizations distributing old clothes. If one group has a family under its wing which needs underwear in sizes it cannot provide, a trade is made with another organization—a coat for three suits of underwear, three sweaters for a set of baby clothes, four pairs of shoes for an overcoat, and so on.

THE EXACT WAY to add water in

Good for a loan of $100 to $300* in CASH—any time

Many husbands and wives believe that it is difficult and complicated to make a loan of $100 to $300 without stocks, bonds, or real estate for security. This is not true—

Borrowing $100 to $300 from us is as simple as this: You ask us for the money you need. We ask you questions that enable us to give you credit. Then we open an account in your name for the money—just like opening a charge account for clothing or furniture.
Then we give you the money in cash.

Money is advanced, under this Plan, to husbands and wives—no other signatures or endorsers are required. Neither are inquiries made about you through friends, relatives or employer. We give you as long as a year and eight months to repay your loan. If you wish, however, you may make larger and more frequent payments than we require, or you may pay up your entire balance at any time. Charge will be made only for the actual time you keep the money, and our rate is nearly one-third less than the maximum lawful rate.

Come in, write, or phone to make a loan. If more convenient, a representative will call at your home.

*As a special service, Household makes loans of $50 to $100 at a rate slightly higher than the rate on loans of $100 to $300.
